NANAIMO AIR CRASH KILLS 23

Truce Failure Blamed on U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—Russia has turned aside a proposal by the United States that Moscow "act" to bring about a Korean armistice agreement, the state department disclosed tonight.

The proposal was made secretly by Ambassador Alan G. Kirk on U.S. to Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky of Russia.

Russia's response was a charge that the U.S. was responsible for the failure to agree to armistice terms. Vishinsky questioned the good faith of Kirk's assurance to him in the Oct. 5 meeting that the U.S. has "no aggressive designs against the U.S.S.R. or anyone."

Vishinsky's reply was given to Hugh S. Cumming, in charge of the embassy since Kirk left Moscow. The state department made public the exchange tonight.

Vishinsky said that the assurances Kirk gave him that U.S. defensive measures involve no aggressive intent were "in contradiction to action of the U.S.A. which show that the government of the U.S.A. is concerned not at all with the maintenance of peace.

"This finds its expression not only in the conduct of war against the Korean people," he said, "but also in the creation of an aggressive Atlantic bloc directed against the U.S.S.R and other democratic countries; in the remilitarization of Germany and Japan; in the creation around the Soviet Union of innumerable American military bases, etc."

Kirk told Vishinsky that a breakdown of the armistice talks in Korea might bring a course of events "which would be undesirable from the point of view of both our governments." Vishinsky, in his statement, demanded to know what the U.S. government "has in mind" and went on:

READY TO TALK

"If it is a question of the possibility of a further worsening of Soviet-American relations, then it is only barely possible to imagine that these relations can worsen even more after President Truman stated to the whole world that agreements with the Soviet Union are not worth the paper on which they are written.

"In such circumstances is it possible to take seriously statements about a wish to improve Soviet-American relations?"

While blaming the U.S. for the Korean situation and troubled Soviet-American relations, Vishinsky said Russia nevertheless is ready to "examine" with the U.S. "all important and unsettled questions and to discuss measures for improving relations."

Airfreighter Still Missing In Atlantic

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass., Oct. 17 (AP).—A patch of yellow dye on the Atlantic 490 miles east of Cape Cod, Mass., was the latest hopeful sign reported today by the great air and sea fleet hunting a lost stratofreighter and its crew of 24.

Westover officers said the dye marker was sighted by Capt. Lewis Randolph, flying a C-54 search plane, and that it was consistent with dye in rubber rafts carried by planes. No raft was seen.

There was no letup in the search, he more than 100 aircraft, including R.C.A.F. planes from Greenwood, N.S., along the planned route of the missing four-engined military air transport service plane, overdue here since Monday on a flight from the Azores.

The scene of this latest possible clue to the big cargo carrier's fate was an area about 150 miles south of Sable Island, N.S., and 490 miles east of Cape Cod.

Flame Throwers Halt Red Troops

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 18 (Thursday) (AP).—Flame-throwing troopers of the United States 1st Cavalry Division today smashed the main Chinese Red resistance on the Western Korean front.

Capture of a key height northwest of Yonchon in the third day of a frontal assault climaxed 16 days of savage fighting in the rolling, barren hills.

On the central front, Allied infantry drove ahead again toward the big Communist supply base of Kumsong—now within rifle range of the U.S. 24th Division and Republic of Korea troops.

The key hill northwest of Yonchon was seized by the U.S. 5th Cavalry Regiment in an early-morning assault.

It fell quickly. The resistance contrasted sharply with the last-ditch Red defense of the hill Tuesday and Wednesday.

At Munsan, the Allies sternly warned the Communists Wednesday to quit stalling on the suspended Korean truce talks or endure a winter campaign against possibly stronger forces.

The warning was issued prior to today's eighth meeting of liaison officers at Panmunjon. The officers met at 10 a.m. (8 p.m. EST Wednesday) and adjourned an hour, 45 minutes later.

There was no immediate announcement of progress.

Says Wreck Awful Mess

(Editor's Note: Owen Jones was among the first to reach the scene of a Queen Charlotte Airlines plane crash on Mount Benson Wednesday night, which killed 23 persons. Here is his story.)

By OWEN JONES
As Told to Canadian Press

NANAIMO, B.C., Oct. 18 (Thursday) (CP) — Five of us started up the mountain together. There were four parties altogether and we all went up different ways.

EYEWITNESS

We had to feel our way it was so dark and we kept hollering to each other to make sure where we were. It started to get foggy up there.

It took us three hours to get up. We didn't see the flames till we were right on the crash. The bluffs hid it.

My God, it was an awful mess. The wreckage was scattered over 500 feet. We found six bodies.

The plane hit the rock face. Old stumps were on fire.

Pieces of the plane were burning all over the place. We used the flames and our flashlights to see.

There was a woman there. Her hands were sticking through a piece of fuselage. A fire extinguisher was lying under one man's head.

One man had on a logging boot, that was all.

I don't think they'll ever recognize anyone. All the bodies were intact but they were all charred.

We thought there were only six dead because we found only six bodies. The others must have burned up.

The right wing was standing straight up and there was one float but that's all that was in one piece.

There was a briefcase with a micrometer in it. A red sweater and one red slipper. They weren't burned.

There were a lot of those 25-cent books scattered around and a lot of blank union cards. They seemed to belong to the bricklayers' union.

Constable George Bassard fell over a piece of wreckage and cut his hand. I guess he had to have three or four stitches taken in it.

Another 100 feet and the plane might have cleared the bluff but there was another one beyond that. If the plane had climbed the other way, he'd have been over the sea and gone.

By LES MEREDITH

EAST WELLINGTON, Oct. 17 "I was first to the scene after the plane crashed and exploded on Mount Benson.

"With my 16-year-old neighbor, Morris Stennus, we spotted six badly burned bodies among wreckage that spread over 700 to 800 yards.

"We saw the large tail assembly, but it was still burning. A big tree was burning there, too, and it kept us from getting too close.

"It was about 7 o'clock when I was over on Jungiepot road to get some water from Morris.

"Then we saw the plane.

"I said 'That plane won't get very far flying that low.'

"It didn't. Seconds later it crashed and exploded.

"There was a big flash and then an explosion.

"We could hear it clearly two miles away.

"It was on Mount Benson. We jumped into our car and up the Mount Benson Road. We had to climb about three-quarters of an hour to get there.

"The plane did not sound right when it came over. Some of my neighbors said the engine was missing."

Kemano Workers Die as Q.C.A. Plane Hits Mount Benson

In the worst air disaster in the history of Vancouver Island, 23 persons were killed last night when a Queen Charlotte Airlines plane plunged into the steep, rocky face of Mount Benson, 10 miles from Nanaimo.

The twin-engined Canso aircraft was en route from Kemano, site of the Aluminum Company of Canada's $500,000,000 project.

Among those killed was Eric Mellanson, Vancouver, chief project engineer for Kitimat Constructors, a private firm which has contracts to build Kitimat townsite.

Q.C.A. officials identified the crew members as Pilot Doug McQueen, First Officer Jaginder S. Johland crewman Ray Williams, all of Vancouver.

NAMES WITHHELD

Names of the other passengers were still being withheld early this morning, pending notification of next-of-kin.

EXCLUSIVE

First two men on the scene, Les Meredith and Morris Stennus, found six charred bodies strewn along the side of the mountain.

Later, with Allan Meredith and Donald Garrow, they led an R.C.M.P. party, headed by Constables George Brasard and Gilday to the scene.

The party was unable to get close to the plane because it was driven back by flames from the aircraft and from nearby trees which it ignited.

The plane was still reported burning at press time.

The passengers were believed to be all men, mostly loggers and construction workers.

HITS STEEP FACE

The plane plunged into the steep face of the 5,000-foot mountain at the 2,000-foot level with a loud explosion.

Eyewitnesses said that it circled around the Nanaimo substation of the B.C. Power Commission twice, narrowly missing the 135,000-volt power lines.

Keith Price, an operator at the station, said the plane then appeared to be trying to gain altitude.

It suddenly, he said, the plane roared at full throttle toward the mountain where he saw a sheet of flame leap up.

Rugged terrain kept police from bringing bodies of six found survivors out in the dark last night.

TURNS BACK

For the same reason a second R.C.M.P. party sent to stand guard over the crash had to turn back to await daylight when it couldn't keep going over the mountainous territory.

Police said that they could see other bodies in the burning plane but were unable to get near.

William Moore, B.C. Forest Service, one of the first on the scene, said, "There was an awful mess of metal."

CAUSE UNKNOWN

There was no immediate explanation of the cause of the crash.

The flight was a regularly scheduled run from Kemano.

The crash occurred at 6.55 p.m. PST. It took R.C.M.P. hours to reach the scene, far up the steep-walled face of the mountain.

Gerard Lessard Cleared On Manslaughter Count

Gerard Lessard, 24, was found not guilty on a charge of manslaughter in Assize Court yesterday, but guilty on an included offense of driving in a manner dangerous to the public.

Lessard was tried in connection with an accident July 20 of this year when two youths, Irvine Isaacson, 16, and Elmer Rotaas, 18, lost their lives in a car crash.

The jury deliberated about two hours late yesterday afternoon.

Defense counsel Joseph McKenna requested a poll of the jury and each swore that he had individually reached the verdict of guilty on the lesser charge.

The 24-year-old French Canadian has been remanded in custody for sentence at a later date.

DRIVER ROTAAS

In the witness box earlier in the day, Lessard swore that he "never drove the car at any time," and that the driver had been Rotaas, killed in the accident.

A good percentage of the testimony of the defense counsel was designed to prove that Lessard was not the driver of the car, and the Crown's to prove that he was.

A defense witness, Arthur Lionel, consulting engineer, told the court that in his opinion, Rotaas (found in the middle of the heap of three injured men on the right side of the car) was the driver.

Speaking in quiet, accented syllables, Lessard said he did not drive the car but could not remember whether he was sitting on the extreme right or in the centre when the car headed toward the scene of the crash at Langford.

Mr. Justice J. M. Coady was the presiding judge.

Top Posts Occupied In Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan, Oct. 17 (AP).—A new governor-general and an acting prime minister took over direction of Pakistani affairs today and sought to unravel the fanatical motives that produced the assassination of Liaquat Ali Khan.

Liaquat, the prime minister who was shot down at Rawalpindi in the shadow of the cold war front with India, was buried today while Pakistanis still were numb wih shock.

Khwaja Nazimuddin, an aristocrat with friendly ties in Britain and the United States, resigned as governor-general and stepped into the prime minister's shoes. He is expected to hold onto the job.

Buckingham Palace announced that Finance Minister Ghulam Mohamed, tall, dapper "brain" of the cabinet, had been named the new governor-general.

City Motorists Warned Of Royal Visit Hazards

Victoria motorists will be faced with one of the worst traffic problems seen in this city in many years during the Royal visit, Deputy Police Chief Harry Mercer warned yesterday.

Unless motorists park far from the parade route they will probably find themselves jammed in and unable to move their cars, he said.

He advised motorists to use downtown parking lots as far as possible or park four or five blocks from the parade route and walk.

"Better still leave your car at home and walk," he said.

Children to See Royalty At Eaglecrest Estate

(Special to The Colonist)

PARKSVILLE, Oct. 17.—Children of Parksville, Qualicum and surrounding districts will have the opportunity of seeing Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh on the grounds of Eaglecrest Estates on the morning of Oct. 26, before their departure for Nanaimo.

According to an official report made at Eaglecrest today, arrangements have been made for children to line up on either side of the driveway leading from the lodge to the main highway.

The Royal couple will be driven past very slowly to allow children a good view of them. It is anticipated the Royal party will leave Eaglecrest about 8.30 a.m., arriving at Parksville shortly after. It has been officially announced that there will be a slow down here and it is expected a large local crowd will be augmented by many visitors from the Alberni district.

Members of the Canadian Legion and all organizations are joining together to lay plans for decorating the route of the Royal procession through Parksville.

Slippery Roads Cancel Drive

CALGARY, Oct. 17 (CP).—R.C.M.P. announced tonight that slippery roads have caused cancellation of a motor trip of about 55 miles tomorrow by Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh from Cochrane, Alta., to Banff, Alta.

The Royal couple will make the trip by train. (See also stories on page six.)

BUTTE, Mont., Oct. 17 (INS)—Four persons were killed today by a fire which swept through a Butte apartment house and hotel, and a fifth resident of the hotel still was missing as firemen probed through the smouldering ruins.

Royal Edition To Set Record For Press Run

The largest press run in the history of Vancouver Island will roll off the presses early Sunday morning when The Daily Colonist prints its special Royal visit edition.

Approximately 42,000 copies will be printed.

In spite of the huge press run, there are only a limited number of the souvenir editions still available. Readers wanting extra copies of the historic edition should place their orders at once.

Printing of the unusually large press run was made possible by newsprint manufacturing companies who supplied extra newsprint in spite of current shortages so that Victoria readers could keep alive their memories of the visit by way of this special edition.

All regular subscribers will receive the special souvenir section in their regular Sunday morning paper.

Thousands See New Library Building After Official Opening Yesterday

Mayor Percy George yesterday officially opened the new $350,000 extension to the Victoria Public Library.

The opening was attended by hundreds of invited guests, including Premier Byron Johnson, Education Minister W. T. Straith and representatives of city and municipal councils.

Both Mayor George and Mr. Straith paid tribute to Dr. Helen Stewart, librarian until 1924, and to Miss Margaret Clay, librarian for the past 27 years.

Mayor George lauded the library board for its "courage and vision" in planning the four-story addition, and for presenting the money by-law which made it possible.

About 3,000 people crowded into the new building during an open house period from 7 to 11 p.m.

Envoy Assails Wild Element

MASSENA, N.Y., Oct. 17 (CP).—Stanley Woodward, U.S. ambassador to Ottawa, said tonight the actions of irresponsible Americans shake Canada's confidence in the U.S. and give Canadians a "squint-eyed and distorted" view of their neighbors to the south.

In a frank appraisal of the way Canadians look at Americans, Mr. Woodward opened fire both at the "short-sightedness" of those Americans who are holding up the St. Lawrence seaway and at the "multitude of irresponsible attacks" on U.S. leadership from within the U.S.

In a speech prepared for delivery to Massena's Chamber of Commerce, he also criticized "little men of limited vision" who make "venomous attacks" on the architects of foreign policy.

Auxiliary Asking Mayhew to Plead For Royal Call at Veterans' Hospital

In a last-ditch effort to have the Royal visit parade past Veterans' Hospital, the women's auxiliary to the hospital is appealing direct to Princess Elizabeth through Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew.

President Margaret Harvey and the executive sent the request to Mr. Mayhew with Canadian Legion support.

The action was taken after repeated requests to the local committee were turned down. The auxiliary feels strongly that all veterans in the hospital should see the visitors. They point out that a detour through the driveway at the hospital would bring the Royal couple before all veterans. Walking and wheelchair cases could be positioned easily, with bed patients watching from front windows.

ENTIRELY EXCLUDED

The letter to Mr. Mayhew said: "The Women's Auxiliary to the Veterans' Hospital urgently requests that you place the fact before the secretary to Her Royal Highness that the Veterans' Hospital has been entirely excluded from the Royal tour of Victoria.

"The auxiliary does not request a visit to the hospital itself, but merely a detour circling the drive in front of the hospital where all parties will be placed at the windows overlooking the procession.

"At the present time, Her Royal Highness passes in front of the Jubilee Hospital on Fort Street and as you can visualize this detour would be very slight and would occupy five minutes at the most.

PUBLIC ANXIOUS

"It would give untold pleasure to bedridden patients and public feeling on this oversight runs very high in Victoria.

"We have left no stone unturned before appealing to you, but feel that a personal request from Her Royal Highness would put the situation in a different light to the local authorities."

ALLABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

Works Minister E. C. Carson plans legislation to curb ribbon development along British Columbia highways.

The road-building boys are at last getting worried about the eager-beaver merchants who line thoroughfares like crowds along a parade route.

"Development is being strung [illegible] but it has no depth," says a news report. "All business men want to build on the highway, not off it."

"If they are not kept clear, the new arterial highways, which cost the taxpayers a lot of money, are reduced to mere streets—and clogged ones at that," an official said.

Possibly ribbon development is not a new thing. The Appian Way may have been lined with pawnbrokers, for all I know. Vendors of camel-meat hamburgers may have slowed traffic to a standstill on the Golden Road to Samarcand.

However, I doubt it. "Development is being strung out on each side of the highways, but it has no depth." The trend seems to belong to the 20th century. It is such an apt symbol of this hollow age. Bright display, shoddy goods. Grand facade, no building.

* * *

No one can blame the merchant if he jostles for a place in the financial sun. They say that when a man builds a better mousetrap, the world beats a path to his door. But few people will beat a path to a better-mousetrap shop, or even a better-hamburger stall, if it happens to be perched on a difficult crag in the Forbidden Plateau.

So the sensible North American merchant lays in a stock of quite ordinary mousetraps and stations himself on a path which someone has already beaten for him—in this case, the Department of Public Works.

Naturally the merchant will make for the open road like a moth homing on a lamp, until he is told not to, and a new item is added to the long list of things people must refrain from doing for the general good.

The action comes almost too late. Once merchants have lodged by the road you can scarcely pry them loose without offering fat compensation. In many parts of the United States it is quite definitely too late.

Some say the typical scene of the Pacific Northwest is a range of snowy mountains against the sky. Others vote for a fine stand of Douglas fir on the shore of a lake.

Both opinions are wide of the mark. The traveler is likely to remember Washington and some of B.C. as a vast grove of cafes, roadhouses, drive-in stores, motels, gas stations and signs. He can't see the woods for billboards.

Billboards and hamburger stands may in time be regarded as things of beauty in themselves. They may become collector's items.

Zealots may boast how they stopped at a quaint old filling station near Victoria where the attendant served tea and crumpets and displayed quaint old 1951 model cars. Cries of indignation may go up when the cruel public works department threatens to chop down some priceless old billboard which had stood for a century.

But now, we old-fashioned people look upon such things as needed institutions at best, a thorough nuisance at worst. If Mr. Carson pushes through this law, he deserves a statue as well as a statute in his honor—right beside the road, too.

Legislature to Consider Ribbon Building Ban

British Columbia is making plans to follow the lead of Alberta, Ontario and some of the states south of the border in halting strip or ribbon development along main highways.

Public works department officials confirmed yesterday that legislation is now being framed for introduction at the spring session of the legislature, aimed at preventing new development along the side of the highways.

The legislation will probably give the province control of municipal land abutting on main highways. Co-operation of municipalities is expected after a recent vote of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities favoring restriction of ribbon development.

Municipalities will benefit from development which is compact rather than strung out. For this reason they will likely be asked to share costs resulting from operation of the proposed legislation.

Ribbon development, because of the heavier traffic it creates, cuts down speed on highways built at heavy cost expressly for high speeds.

Public works officials cited the King George Highway, from the United States border to Vancouver, as an example of how ribbon [illegible] traffic on what was designed as an express highway.

New legislation will not correct strip development which has already taken place, but will prevent such development in the future.

Injuries Blamed On Flying Cow

WHISTLER, Ala., Oct. 17 (AP)—A flying cow sent Henry Smith to hospital Tuesday. Smith was driving a neighbor's cow across the highway. A car slammed into the cow, which flew several feet through the air and knocked Smith to the pavement. Smith suffered serious leg injuries.

Pension Applications Come Slowly

Applications for old age pensions are "drifting in very slowly," W. R. Bone, regional director of family allowances, said yesterday.

Mr. Bone warned that unless applications are made now, many pensioners may receive their allowances late. Checks are to start in January.

"I don't know how to spur the applications," Mr. Bone said, referring to recent publicity on pensions. He expects Ottawa to launch a new publicity campaign near the end of the month.

DETAIL SOON

Details of the pension scheme should be known within 10 days, according to the director. Until the House of Commons sits, nothing definite will be known.

Mr. Bone said he did not think the government would place liens against the estates of pensioners who die after receiving old age assistance.

"It is my personal opinion only," he said, "but it does not seem at all likely that the government would do that."

Serve CHEESE . . .

during NATIONAL CHEESE FESTIVAL

. . . your Bargain in Nutrition

WANT TO SERVE DELICIOUS, WHOLESOME MEALS at moderate cost? Include cheese often on your menu! Ounce for ounce, there is no other basic food that equals cheese for complete, high-quality protein . . . for calcium, phosphorus, and other nutrients from milk. Cheese is a bargain in nutrition! There are Kraft varieties to delight every cheeselover! Visit the cheese display at your food store during the National Cheese Festival, now being celebrated from coast to coast.

SNACKS and SANDWICHES

Cheese tastes good, looks good — and it's good for you! Make Ham and Cheese Buns with KRAFT DELUXE SLICES. They're quick-to-prepare. Split hamburger buns, add a slice of cold ham and a KRAFT DELUXE SLICE of cheese in your favorite flavor. Garnish with tomato sections and parsley. Fine for the family, perfect for parties.

HOT CHEESE SAUCE

Make a wonderful hot cheese sauce with VELVEETA, to pour over eggs, vegetables, seafood, toast. Easy way to turn leftovers into appetizing, nutritious main dishes! Melt ½ lb. of VELVEETA in the top of a double boiler. Stir ¼ cup of milk. The rich yet mild cheddar cheese flavor of VELVEETA makes your hot cheese sauce so tempting . . . and VELVEETA always melts smoothly.

PERFECT SLICES!

More flavor! In every neat package of KRAFT DELUXE SLICES, you'll find 8 perfect sandwich-size slices of fine process cheese. The slices are cut, wrapped, and sealed by Kraft right after pasteurization.

ALL ABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

Works Minister E. C. Carson plans legislation to curb ribbon development along British Columbia highways.

The road-building boys are at last getting worried about the eager-beaver merchants who line thoroughfares like crowds along a parade route.

"Development is being strung out on each side of highways, but it has no depth," says a news report. "All business men want to build on the highway, not off it."

"If they are not kept clear, the new arterial highways, which cost the taxpayers a lot of money, are reduced to mere streets—and clogged ones at that," an official said.

Possibly ribbon development is not a new thing. The Appian Way may have been lined with pawnbrokers, for all I know. Vendors of camel-meat hamburgers may have slowed traffic to a standstill on the Golden Road to Samarcand.

However, I doubt it. "Development is being strung out on each side of the highways, but it has no depth." The trend seems to belong to the 20th century. It is such an apt symbol of this hollow age. Bright display, shoddy goods. Grand facade, no building.

* * *

No one can blame the merchant if he jostles for a place in the financial sun. They say that when a man builds a better mousetrap, the world beats a path to his door. But few people will beat a path to a better mousetrap shop, or even a better hamburger stall, if it happens to be perched on a difficult crag in the Forbidden Plateau.

So the sensible North American merchant lays in a stock of quite ordinary mousetraps and stations himself on a path which someone has already beaten for him—in this case, the Department of Public Works.

Naturally the merchant will make for the open road like a moth homing on a lamp, until he is told not to, and a new item is added to the long list of things people must refrain from doing for the general good.

The action comes almost too late. Once merchants have lodged by the road you can scarcely pry them loose without offering fat compensation. In many parts of the United States it is quite definitely too late.

Some say the typical scene of the Pacific Northwest is a range of snowy mountains against the sky. Others vote for a fine stand of Douglas fir on the shore of a lake.

Both opinions are wide of the mark. The traveler is likely to remember Washington and some of B.C. as a vast grove of cafes, roadhouses, drive-in stores, motels, gas stations and signs. He can't see the woods for billboards.

Billboards and hamburger stands may in time be regarded as things of beauty in themselves. They may become collector's items.

Zealots may boast how they stopped at a quaint old filling station near Victoria where the attendant served tea and crumpets and displayed quaint old 1951 model cars. Cries of indignation may go up when the cruel public works department threatens to chop down some priceless old billboard which had stood for a century.

But now, we old-fashioned people look upon such things as needed institutions at best, a thorough nuisance at worst. If Mr. Carson pushes through this law, he deserves a statue as well as a statute in his honor—right beside the road, too.

Legislature to Consider Ribbon Building Ban

British Columbia is making plans to follow the lead of Alberta, Ontario and some of the states south of the border in halting strip or ribbon development along main highways.

Public works department officials confirmed yesterday that legislation is now being framed for introduction at the spring session of the legislature, aimed at preventing new development [illegible]

The legislation will probably give the province control of municipal land abutting on main highways. Co-operation of municipalities is expected after a recent vote of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities favoring restriction of ribbon development.

Municipalities will benefit from development which is compact rather than strung out. For this reason they will likely be asked to share costs resulting from operation of the proposed legislation.

Ribbon development, because of the heavier traffic it creates, cuts down speed on highways built at heavy cost expressly for high speeds.

Public works officials cited the King George Highway, from the United States border to Vancouver, as an example of how ribbon development has reduced speed of traffic on what was designed as an express highway.

New legislation will not correct strip development which has already taken place, but will prevent such development in the future.

Pension Applications Come Slowly

Applications for old age pensions are "drifting in very slowly," W. R. Bone, regional director of family allowances, said yesterday.

Mr. Bone warned that unless applications are made now, many pensioners may receive their allowances late. Checks are to start in January.

"I don't know how to spur the applications," Mr. Bone said, referring to recent publicity on pensions. He expects Ottawa to launch a new publicity campaign near the end of the month.

DETAIL SOON

Details of the pension scheme should be known within 10 days, according to the director. Until the House of Commons sits, nothing definite will be known.

Mr. Bone said he did not think the government would place liens against the estates of pensioners who die after receiving old age assistance.

"It is my personal opinion only," he said, "but it does not seem at all likely that the government would do that."

Injuries Blamed On Flying Cow

WHISTLER, Ala., Oct. 17 (AP)—A flying cow sent Henry Smith to hospital Tuesday. Smith was driving a neighbor's cow across the highway. A car slammed into the cow, which flew several feet through the air and knocked Smith to the pavement. Smith suffered serious leg injuries.

Disorders in Egypt Strengthen U.K. Hand

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr.
Associated Press News Analyst

Egypt has played into Britain's hands by failure to preserve order during this critical period.

Where Iran was exceedingly careful to give Britain no excuse for armed intervention while demanding evacuation of foreign employees of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, and where Britain was restrained by the fear that force on her part would bring a counter-reaction from Russia, Egypt has overplayed her hand.

She might have known that the factors protecting Iran in her expropriation of oil properties would not apply to what would have amounted to Egyptian expropriation of another vital world strategic position, the Suez Canal.

OFFER REJECTED

In addition, Egypt was offered ... full partnership in a regional defense arrangement and rejected it almost without reading it. Now France, the United States and Turkey are all lined up with Britain's decision to defend the canal. Britain has used the excuse of violent disorders to reinforce her troops beyond the limits of the treaty which Cairo has revoked anyway. If Egypt wants to try force, the allies are in a position to welcome such a direct method of settlement.

In addition, they are prepared to go ahead with their Mediterranean defense pact without Egypt.

Continued Egyptian violence, and especially any attempt to use her armed forces to enforce her demands that the British leave, will also put England in position to apply economic sanctions. As a member of the sterling bloc and with her economy closely tied to that of the British Commonwealth, Egypt would be hamstrung.

MIGHT SPREAD

Thus there is a developing picture which observers have been thinking might become general. It began with the Iranian dispute and the non-cooperation of India in the U.N. Korean project.

It is being brought on by shortsighted and fanatical Nationalist leaders in some countries. They seek to take advantage of the cold war strain on the West to feather their own nests without regard for what will happen to them from Russia if Western power is sufficiently undermined.

Perhaps it would be a good thing in the long run if the democracies should give some demonstration that, when it actually begins to boil down to a matter of survival, they must be ruthless too.

Insurance Men Submit Brief On Hospitals

VANCOUVER, Oct. 17 (CP).—A lengthy brief, backed by months of research, has been submitted by representatives of the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association to the legislative hospital insurance inquiry board now meeting here.

Sydney J. Smith, chairman, declared today that Canadian insurance companies have shown a keen interest in the work of the board which has been inquiring into the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service for the last five months.

The association is represented by Bruce Power of Toronto, secretary, and Stefan Hansen, actuary with the Great West Assurance Company of Winnipeg.

Mr. Smith said that the association's brief along with all the other information collected during the inquiry will be reviewed during the next few weeks before the board make its final report.

The report and recommendations will be forwarded immediately to Health Minister Douglas Turnbull.

Oddities

OTTAWA, Oct. 17 (CP).—The newspaper woman who fell in the Ottawa River while covering the royal tour is getting something nice to remember it by.

Mayor Charlotte Whitton said today the city is sending Lotta Dempsey of The Toronto Globe and Mail an expensive blue bathing suit complete with rows of pearl buttons.

"This," said the sympathetic Miss Whitton, "she can wear anywhere, even to her 'Going-in' parties."

Miss Dempsey went in the river while stepping out of a boat from which she had covered a royal cruise down the Ottawa.

BODMIN, Cornwall, England, Oct. 17 (Reuters).—The talk is in Russian and the drink is vodka most nights at the "Hole in the Wall," this typical English tavern.

In fact Cornish villagers have christened one end of the bar "Joe's Corner."

EXPLANATION: Russian instructors at a nearby armed services interpreters' school have become attached to the village pub.

At first they had beer or cider. Then proprietor Joe Lewis produced a bottle of vodka for his new customers—and now his worry is how to get enough of it.

When he runs out, though, only the Russians are disappointed. None of the British regular customers who tried it asked for a second glass.

Just 10 Red Candidates

Communist Support Embarrasses Labor

LONDON, Oct. 17 (Reuters).—The Labor Party is again embarrassed in its election campaign by the unsought support of Britain's small, but noisy, Communist Party.

The Communists saw all 100 of their candidates whipped in the 1950 general election and Oct. 25 are putting up only 10 handpicked men. Where no Communist is standing, Communist supporters have been told to back the Labor candidate "to ensure maximum unity in preventing the return of a Conservative Government."

But a Communist Party statement added the warning: "We must at the same time press for the necessary changes in the policy of the present Labor government."

TOKEN RESISTANCE

The Communists will enter candidates where they are sure of at least a good part of the vote without costing Labor a seat, or in token resistance against a national leader whose policies they disapprove—Conservative leader Winston Churchill or Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison, for example.

All but three of the Communist candidates lost their £150 deposits 18 months ago—a total ... £14,550.

Soldiers Go Overboard In Eagerness

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17 (INS).—Four servicemen, straining to get their first view of their homeland after months in Korea, plunged over the side of the transport General Weigel, today, when a chain against which they were leaning broke.

One of the four tumbled into the water of the San Francisco Bay and the others to the dock apron. None was seriously hurt.

Two port employees dived into the water and attached a rope to the soldier who had plunged into the bay and he was pulled to safety.

Shortly after the accident, the others of the 1,851 servicemen aboard started disembarking to the strains of "California, Here We Come."

Senate Supports Move For Legislation Study

OTTAWA, Oct. 17 (CP).—The Senate, in one of its rare divisions, today supported a proposal to cut the size of three standing committees and give them the special job of examining major government legislation before it reaches the Senate floor.

The proposal, made by the Government leader, Senator Wishart Robertson, and supported by Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader, was opposed by a group of Senators who objected to reducing membership. But in the vote it was supported 35 to 11—the opposition including 10 Liberals and one Progressive Conservative.

Later the membership of the committees transport and communications, finance and external relations was chosen and they will be set up quickly with wide powers of reference and permission to sit during Senate adjournments.

Senator Robertson said the committees will get access to major government bills, such as those regarding freight rates, before they pass the House of Commons and come before the Senate proper. This would meet longstanding criticisms by Senators that they lacked sufficient time to consider major government bills.

Awards Offered For Legal Essays

OTTAWA, Oct. 17 (CP).—The Canadian Bar Association launched its annual essay competition today, offering $1,275 in prize money for the three best essays on legal matters. The contest, open to Canadian lawyers, notaries and law school graduates and teachers, closes next April 30. First prize will be $750; second, $375; third, $150.

Professor Hits Boost in Rates

VANCOUVER, Oct. 17 (CP).—George R. Elliott, assistant professor of economics at Victoria College, told the Board of Transport Commissioners that telephone subscribers will in effect shoulder the B.C. Telephone Company's increased wage and tax bill if the company is granted a 14 per-cent boost in rates.

This, he said, involves shifting the tax and replacing a non-inflationary tax with an inflationary tax.

"If you continue this passing on, you get a situation that contributes to inflation and ought to be viewed with disfavor."

"If the company absorbs the tax increase it would be no worse off than others in the competitive economy."

Sen. J. W. de B. Farris, K.C., counsel for the company, termed the economist a theorist and not a realist.

Phone Cost Estimates Said High Thus Far

VANCOUVER, Oct. 17 (CP).—British Columbia Telephone Company's application for rate boosts is based on estimates, not facts, a chartered accountant told the board of transport commissions here today.

W. Grant Ross of Clarkson ... ants, made this statement at the third day of the board's inquiry concerning the application.

Ross' firm was retained by the city of Vancouver and the province of British Columbia to make a survey of the figures used in the telephone company's application.

"In effect this board is being asked to grant the company sufficient additional revenues to meet estimated existing expenses plus estimated additional expenses resulting from recent wage and tax increases," he said.

"I think that I should point out that none of the figures set out in the company's application are factual," he said. "They are all estimates based on assumptions, and it will never be possible to compare them with the actual results of any year's operations."

Operating experience for the first seven months of 1951 did not bear out some of the estimated figures, he testified. According to his calculations the telephone company had over-estimated their maintenance costs by $275,431.

Ross recommended changes in the telephone company's accounting procedure which he said deviated from accepted accounting principles.

Egyptian Memories Short

LESS than a decade ago German and Italian troops under Rommel were brought to a stop by British regulars less than one day's journey by armored vehicle from Alexandria, Port Said and Cairo at the height of the Nazi drive in the western desert. To stop the enemy there, before there could be any successful Allied move to oust him, Great Britain stripped herself of tanks and troops, even drew airplanes in from Singapore, where they were very badly needed. The return punch, begun under General Alexander, now Governor-General of Canada, broke the back of the Axis drive in the Mediterranean, knocked Italy out of the war and set the lid on the last effective offensive the Nazis could launch anywhere. So much is history, recently recalled in Mr. Churchill's fourth volume, "The Hinge of Fate." Egypt's memory, it would seem, is both uncertain and short.

How much fire there may be behind the propaganda smoke that lies like a pall over Egypt remains to be seen. Three youngsters of high school age shouting ribald slogans would be enough to draw a crowd in Ismailia, and an Egyptian crowd egged on by extremists is capable of anything. In a land where "rioting" is commonplace, the Wafdi party has used this means before to gain its ends. That it seriously intends to resort to arms in defense of its sudden abrogation of the 1936 defense treaty so far has not been established. Up to the present there has been more shouting than shooting. Likewise, the claim that the Sudan is bursting to join Egypt in any such a demonstration seems at this juncture far more highly colored than apparent is possible.

Britain's determination to hold its treaty rights in Egypt, safeguard the Suez Canal and insure the self-determination of the Sudan under traditional protection until a world tribunal holds otherwise is not only understandable, but also a moderate answer in highly provocative circumstances. Had the British Eighth Army stepped aside in the early years of the last decade where would Egypt have been? That response was a result of the 1936 treaty, and treaties cannot be all for the party of the first part with every shift in wind and weather.

Surely These Veterans Can Be Included

UNDERSTANDABLE concern is being voiced on behalf of inmates of the veterans' hospital here who are incapacitated from taking a stand on the procession routes of the Royal visit. Veterans' hospitals in other Canadian centres have been visited or included in the Royal drives, and Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip are scheduled to spend 25 minutes inside the Shaughnessy Institution in Vancouver. In Victoria the veterans' hospital, so far, has been ignored in the arrangements made.

The feelings of men who answered the call for King and country and who still suffer as the result of their sacrifice, can be easily imagined. Their King's daughter and her husband, themselves war veterans, will be in the close vicinity of the hospital yet the inmates are to be denied a glimpse of the Royal visitors.

That is all they seek. At this late moment they do not ask that the Royal schedule be upset by a visit inside the hospital building. The hospital authorities are prepared to move such patients as can be moved outside to the front of the building, and range the beds of others alongside front windows from which they may see out. All that is required is the diversion of the Royal procession so that it will turn off Fort Street up Richmond Avenue, go round the crescent driveway in front of the hospital, and back again via Richmond to Fort.

The detour involved is perhaps 1,000 yards all told, and a time expenditure of about five minutes. Even though the Royal program for the visit to this city has quite properly been signed, sealed and delivered surely this small change can be made. It seems so little to ask that these patriotic veterans should be allowed to see and raise a hand of welcome to the daughter of the King in whose name they fought and suffered. One imagines if the matter was brought to the attention of the Princess the omission would be rectified immediately.

Symphony for Students

VICTORIA'S fine symphony orchestra, now in its 11th year among the four leading symphony groups of Canada, is performing a valuable civic service by broadening its sphere of influence to include pupils of Greater Victoria schools, public and private. Last year as an innovation Mr. Gruber directed the orchestra in two special concerts for students. The unrestrained enthusiasm which the young audiences displayed over what was for many a first taste of the playing of a flesh-and-blood orchestra clearly demonstrated that good music is for all ages and that enjoyment of the works of the great composers is not confined to people of mature years.

It is pleasing to find that as a result of the success of last year's experiment the symphony season for juniors is to be extended this winter to four concerts by the full orchestra, under Mr. Gruber's brilliant direction and accompanied by the explanatory comments he interposes to help students understand the meaning of what they hear and the place of each instrument in the presentation of a symphonic work. The concerts will not be in miniature, but will be full-length programs selected from the compositions to be presented to adult audiences during the eight-concert season.

The student series is, of course, an extra-curricular attraction. It has the full co-operation of the school authorities, although not financially assisted from public funds, being made available to pupils on a membership basis at a nominal fee barely sufficient to meet the cost of staging the concerts. The value of this altogether commendable effort cannot be measured by monetary standards. Its chief worth lies in the opportunity it affords to create in early life an appreciation of good music, and to show in an age of "canned" entertainment the dimensions of pleasure to be derived from the playing of an orchestra which can be seen as well as heard.

In a material way, too, benefit from this endeavor should be reaped in future years in enlarged adult audiences, which are a vital necessity if symphony is to be kept alive in the community. If that should be the happy result, the orchestra and its parent society will have deserved their reward.

SALE OF BULBS

Sir,—In the October issue of "Northwest Gardens" there is an editorial which deserves wide publicity on "Truth in Advertising" pertaining to the annual fall mail order sale of bulbs. A large mail order firm doing business in both Canada and the United States makes the practice of advertising by press and radio. It sells 100 tulip bulbs 1½ inches to 2¼ inches in circumference, plus 12 Dutch iris bulbs for $1.98. Bulbs are normally graded and sold according to size by measuring their diameter. A 10-cent piece is about 2¼ inches in circumference; but less than ¾-inch in diameter which is the top size in the above offer. Most of the bulbs are very much smaller.

Orrin Hale, the editor, says "Advertising copy may be literally accurate, but which is nevertheless misunderstood by many customers. Advertising must be written for the probable effect it produces on ordinary and trusting minds. We think the buyer of bulbs has the right to expect the bulbs offered for sale will bloom under ordinary garden practice the following spring." He stated that Better Business Bureaus testing bulbs about which they have had complaints found that out of 1,000 bulbs planted 740 failed to grow and none bloomed.

One firm recently had a full page colored advertisement in a well-known Toronto weekly. I received complaints last year following a radio advertising campaign. Experience here is similar to that described in the United States. Many of the bulbs purchased last year were diseased and dead upon arrival. Three-quarters of those that I checked were junk, and sort of bulbs that any good gardener would throw on the refuse heap. The remainder couldn't possibly bloom the first year. This is not meant to discredit the many honest firms who sell bulbs.

I think that B.C. growers are losing an opportunity to merchandise their own government-inspected bulbs through the mail order trade.

Park Administrator.

VETERANS' DRIVE

Sir,—The Remembrance Day Committee has opened its office at 647 Yates Street, between Broad and Douglas.

Saturday, Nov. 10, has been set as the day on which scores of volunteers will offer poppies for sale on the streets, not only in the city but in the outlying shopping districts. Previous to that date, veterans of both world wars will be at work selling wreaths and poppies for window and store decorations.

The people of Greater Victoria have always supported this effort of the Canadian Legion most generously and it is anticipated that the response this year will be up to the standards set in the past.

The proceeds from this operation are used to provide employment and assistance for disabled and burned-out veterans whose cases do not come under any of the usual categories of pension or assistance.

Orders for poppies and wreaths can also be filled by letter or telephone direct to the Remembrance Day Committee office. The telephone number is G 9413.

Letters have been mailed to the numerous ladies' auxiliaries and service clubs in the city, requesting their support in obtaining taggers for Poppy Day, Saturday, Nov. 10.

Will taggers please contact the Remembrance Day Committee office, 647 Yates Street, or phone G 9413.

Thinking Aloud

"of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

FOUR gentlemen who sign themselves with crosses, meaning their marks and not kisses, sent me a postcard anent the recent Wilson-Finlay show at the Royal and my remarks thereon. They thought it (the concert) terrible, mawkish, full of ancient jokes.

It takes all kinds—what a good thing—to make a world. Another reader writes to say she found the show "excellent from start to finish." So there you are.

* * *

For kilties only: The same lady tells me of a brother who was an enthusiastic Territorial (reserve army in Britain). Before going to week-night parade he would step into the parlor, go down on his knees on the carpet, and if his kilt just touched the floor it was hanging in the proper length. (This, of course, was subject to sisterly inspection.)

* * *

"Constant reader" wants to know to whom the national debt is owed. By and large, to Canadians—all persons who hold government bonds of one kind or another. They collect the interest by clipping those enticing coupons that pay off when you present them at a bank. If "constant reader" has any victory or savings bonds then he, in a sense, is his own creditor. People lend the government money to carry out certain public works, like running a war or building roads, and so as a nation go into debt with themselves as individuals.

* * *

For people like yours truly: Appropos the pictures you see these days at the top of columns like this, an anonymous correspondent mails me the following limerick. As poetry I doubt that it matches Shelley or Keats, but there's a germ of truth in the jingle, don't you think?

As a beauty I am not a star.
There are handsomer people by far;
As for my face I don't mind it,
For I am behind it.
It's the people in front get the jar.

* * *

A persistent enquirer sends me a second letter seeking information about the flag, meaning, I suppose, either the Union Jack or the Red Ensign. "Our law states it should be used in harbor, does it not? Is it permissible to throw it over a table as a drape and stand behind and speak."

According to the harbormaster no ship tied up in harbor, even a Canadian government ship, breaks any law by not flying a flag. As a courtesy, foreign vessels usually fly identifying colors, and of course when ships get under way they invariably display private or official flags. The nuances of maritime flag waving are mostly a matter of good manners and the tradition of the sea, although there are certain legal penalties for flying unauthorized flags, too complicated to recite here.

Nor should the flag ever be used as a table drape. At public meetings it should be displayed above and behind the speaker.

* * *

The same reader wants to know when the word "honorable" should be used and when not. This is another complicated business.

Provincial cabinet ministers are known as the Honorable So-and-So, but lose this courtesy title once out of office. Federal cabinet ministers retain it for life, because they've been sworn of the Canadian Privy Council. Canadian members of the Imperial Privy Council, such as Mr. St. Laurent, Mr. Howe, Mr. Arthur Meighen, carry for all time the prefix "Right Honorable." Once a lieutenant-governor always an "Honorable." And a long list of justices of various courts across the Dominion carry the same courtesy title. So do Speakers, temporarily. So do the heirs of extant Canadian viscounts and barons.

Gerald Waring
Reporting From Ottawa

WHEN the government tipped its hand in the Throne Speech that it intends to abolish retail price fixing by manufacturers, it probably did so in the hope that retailers would beat the gun.

If they do, a wave of price-slashing over a wide range of consumer goods could be in the making right now.

It may be some time before the government will be ready to proceed in parliament with the promised legislation to prohibit manufacturers from fixing the retail prices of their products. Meanwhile, it may have reasoned, mere announcement of intention might start price skids in slower moving lines of goods where inventories are heavy.

Moreover, there have been signs recently that inflation is losing some of its steam. The rise in the cost-of-living index for August, reported early this month, was only nine-tenths of a point, the smallest since May.

In view of that, a fairly mild cutback in prices now might produce a drop in the index when the figure for October is announced early in December. Even a small recession would be welcomed by the government, in view of current pressure on it to impose price controls as a curb on inflation.

* * *

It is officially estimated that the prices of about 15 per cent of the goods in retailers' shelves and show windows are pegged by the manufacturers. Mostly they're "name" products, like automobiles, radios and other durable goods.

In general, the peg works like this: The manufacturer sets the resale price, and forces retailers to adhere to it by refusing to supply those who sell below the pegged price. Often, particularly in the case of high-priced goods like cars and radios, the manufacturer does not sell indiscriminately to all retailers who may want to handle his product. Instead, he bestows franchises for definite territories on selected retailers.

Retailers value such hard-to-get franchises, and know they have to abide by the manufacturer's price list to keep them. Moreover, they know they'll be protected in two ways: against other franchise-holders undercutting list prices, and against undue competition by restraint on the part of the manufacturer in granting franchises.

By making resale price maintenance an offense under the Combines Investigation Act, parliament will force trade to abandon this rigid and elaborate system of protection against the free play of competition. This will encourage prices to fluctuate in accordance with the economic law of supply and demand, and at this time, the government hopes, to fluctuate downwards.

INCIDENTAL intelligence: Czechoslovakia is slowly paying off the $20,000,000 Canada loaned her before that country turned Communist. Officials here believe the Czech Reds will continue to pay as long as it suits their convenience—which means as long as they fear non-payment of installments would halt the flow of Canadian goods to their country. . . . When he was a college student, Russell Bell was Liberal prime minister in mock parliaments. Now he's secretary to C.C.F. leader M. J. Coldwell. . . . Before Newfoundland joined Canada, customs officials barred Newfoundland potatoes because they were apt to have a fungus disease called potato wart. Now that there's no customs barrier any more, the exclusion of Newfie tubers is more difficult, and the potato provinces of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island are worried lest their potatoes catch Newfoundland's potato wart.

Inflation Spares Nobody

(From The Ottawa Journal)

THE Montreal Gazette points out that all the welfare organizations are hard hit by inflation; they need more money not to expand their scope of operations but to meet higher costs—not to advance but to stand in the same place.

That will surprise nobody, and it may be said the solution of the problem is easy: Let everybody give a little more to the Community Chests or, in Montreal, to the Welfare Federation.

But it isn't as simple as that. Inflation strikes at individuals, of course, as well and as heavily as it strikes at social-service organizations, and it must be true that large numbers of contributors to charities and benevolences have a smaller margin than a year ago out of which to make donations. Many contributors, we have no doubt, could demonstrate from their domestic budgets that they should give less this year, not more.

How this problem is to be met we do not know. Obviously it will cost an orphanage, say, more now than a year ago to feed and maintain its charges, but the money to do this must come from kind-hearted persons already baffled and battered by the cost of living on the home front.

Welfare organizations rarely are operated on a basis that permits much cutting back in the name of economy; almost always they endure a constant struggle with costs even in normal conditions, and we can understand how their troubles are intensified as the cost of living climbs—and climbs. But it goes up steadily also for individuals. Inflation plays no favorites.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

Hospital patients 100 years ago drank more beer than milk, says an article in the medical journal Lancet. Dr. A. V. Neale, of Bristol University, recalled that in the old days patients were regularly supplied with strong beer, porter and ale.

We come to that point in lovely autumn when the poet's untalented brother must begin to think seriously about raking up the leaves.

NEW CRIME

The New Jersey legislature has passed a law making et cetera a crime. Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll said one of the bills sent to him for signing listed a number of offenses punishable by law, and that a clerk had apparently tired of describing them all. "So," the governor said, "the bill came to me with the crime of et cetera included."

A preacher asked those members of his congregation who had conquered the sin of hatred to stand up. A very old man—the oldest man in the country—got to his feet. "You don't hate anybody at all?" asked the preacher.

"No, I don't," said the old man.

"That's wonderful. Tell us how you did it."

"Well," piped the aged one, "all those skunks who did me wrong, all those blankety blanks I hated"—and he cackled triumphantly—"they're all dead!"

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

FOR several months of my happy-go-lucky life I was condemned to be the adjutant of a reasonably famous Canadian regiment of infantry. The adjutant of a regiment is, as it were, the business manager. The colonel is the president. The second-in-command is the vice-president in charge of production. The company commanders are departmental managers. And the adjutant is business manager. He is in charge of the orderly room. He is a stinker.

He gets up at 6 a.m. for the reveille parade, and stands out there in the fog and chill (his great-coat hiding his pyjamas and rubber boots), and by his sporty presence makes sure that every mother's son of the regiment is up and on parade too. They have to bring him the parade state. And there he stands, glaring in profound suspicion upon each drowsy company, each frowsy detail. He may be so vicious a character as to step up and count one of the companies. I have known of it.

* * *

Then all day long he sits in the orderly room, filling out forms, counting, checking, issuing orders from the colonel, acting as prosecutor of every offender, attending all parades, mounting all guards, visiting the clink, seeing that punishment drill is being carried out. His role in life is to see that no mistakes are made, and if made, all hell be visited upon the errant one.

How the regiment loves him!

Tonight, ah, long, long years after, my taxi driver made a wrong turning and was most apologetic for his error.

"My dear man," I hurried to assure him, "think nothing of it. If others did not make the odd mistake, life would be unbearable for the rest of us."

You see? Even adjutants do penance.

In Defence Of Peace

A DOCUMENT of probably historic importance to the peace of the world has been drawn up by the 14-nation Collective Measures Committee of the United Nations. This is a blueprint of possible action by the world community in resisting aggression against one of its members.

The 100-page report is the result of months of study by three subcommittees and their staffs as well as the main committee. It has been hammered out under stress of proposals for a strategic embargo or blockade against Communist China and under shadow of possible attack in Europe by the Red Army.

* * *

The report does not advocate any startling new measures in the way of economic boycott or other collective pressures for peace. Possibly its greatest virtue is in the fact that it assembles and correlates procedures which are more or less familiar, at least in discussion and some of them in practice, and sets forth an approximate timetable for their use.

This schedule begins with political actions, such as appeals by the U.N. to offenders, severance of diplomatic relations, possible suspension or expulsion from the U.N. or its agencies, and refusal to recognize changes brought about by threats or force (the Stimson doctrine).

Another category of measures is economic. They range from selective embargoes on arms and strategic materials through embargoes on imports from an offender's territory to possible severance of all commercial relations.

* * *

Finally, there are military sanctions which grapple with the requirements of collective defense. These include asking nations to earmark units for U.N. call, invoking regional alliances such as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to act for the U.N., and providing for military headquarters.

Some of these categories may overlap. Once listed, most of the actions look fairly obvious. But it is not so obvious that the things would be done without concrete planning. The side with a plan for meeting adverse contingencies gets further than the one that waits to improvise, whether the test be a football game, a parliamentary debate, or a war.

As the report says, "The more probable it is that collective action will be resolute and effective, the less probable it is that there will be resort to force."

Shepherd Boy's Song

He that is down needs fear no fall,
He that is low, no pride;
He that is humble, ever shall
Have God to be his guide.

I am content with what I have,
Little be it, or much;
And, Lord, contentment still I crave,
Because thou savest such.

Fullness to such a burden is
That go on pilgrimage;
Here little, and thereafter bliss
Is best from age to age.

Initial Sum, Annual Cost Hindering Pre-Primary

An initial expenditure of $250,000 together with an annual cost of about $60,000 for equipment and expenses is the reason why there is no pre-primary school in Esquimalt, Trustee R. H. Reeve of the Greater Victoria School Board said last night.

Mr. Reeve, addressing a meeting of the Esquimalt Ratepayers' Association, pointed out that to build a unit for pre-primary instruction in Esquimalt would also mean building similar type units in 22 other schools in the greater Victoria area and that the present building budget would not allow such a project.

Asked why there were pre-primary classes in operation in six Victoria schools at present, and no money for one in Esquimalt, Mr. Reeve explained that the schools in question already had that space available and that no additional buildings had to be built.

AWARE OF PROBLEM

"The school board is fully aware of the problem in Esquimalt," he said. "You have not been forgotten. As soon as there is money or space available, you will have a pre-primary here."

A letter from the Esquimalt Council in reference to the request for a traffic light at the intersection of Esquimalt and Admirals Roads was read at the meeting.

The letter stated that a traffic light such as the one requested could not be put in for less than $900. They said that as there was no money available this year for additional traffic aids the proposal would have to be tabled. Money could be obtained from the reverted property fund, but this would take longer than waiting for the appropriations for next year.

Small Contributions Still Aiding Couple

SMALL contributions to the rehabilitation of Langford residents Mr. and Mrs. Dan Valcourt, rendered homeless in a late September fire, are still coming in, according to Mrs. James Fitzgerald, neighbor of the pair, who is heading the drive.

"But we still have had absolutely no response from either the Community Chest or the Red Cross," she claimed.

Victoria department and furniture stores have promised goods and scrip for purchases to the couple and help has also been received from the Craigflower P.T.A. as well as individuals.

Residents Own Sidewalk, But Who Pays the Bills?

Who pays the bill for injuries sustained in an accident on the Colville Road sidewalk?

This question, put forward by a member of the Esquimalt Ratepayers' Association at the regular monthly meeting last night, became the centre of an involved legal argument.

The residents of the Colville Road area, through the ratepayers' association, asked the Esquimalt council to replace the present wooden sidewalk with one of concrete. The municipality declined.

When the area was originally surveyed it was done with the idea that it was a temporary housing project for 10 years only. At the end of the war because of the acute housing shortage, the homes were offered to the occupants for sale at a small cost.

Once they had purchased, the new owners asked for a survey and found that the sidewalk, in some cases, was on their property.

Fearing accidents, these people now want to know who is liable in the case of injury, the municipality themselves, or the federal government who did the original survey.

ENTHUSIASTIC SEAMAN

LONDON (CP).—Peter Vargas, 21-year-old seaman, arrived at the docks to see his ship steaming down the Thames. He dived into the water, then struggled to shore and collapsed. He finally got aboard the ship after a trip in a police launch.

Films of Tour Rushed to U.K.

Londoners will see newsreel pictures of the Royal visit to Victoria by Thursday of next week, within three days after the tour of the city.

John Turner, an outstanding English newsreel cameraman, is making the tour for the J. Arthur Rank organization. His films of eastern Canadian events were shown in London's West End cinemas less than 48 hours after the actual events.

In addition, of course, the films are being shown across Canada, the United States, and many other countries. His work has been running at the Odeon Theatre here.

Service Centre Still Unsettled

Any replacement for Prince Robert House as an armed forces downtown centre is still "very much up in the air" according to Navy League president Forrest L. Shaw.

Mr. Shaw will meet next week in Toronto with members of the league's Dominion council to discuss the possibility of getting support from the national organization for opening of a new centre.

"But it is still very indefinite," he said. "If the Dominion council decides to help us there will still be the subject of arranging the new centre so it will be open to members of all services and not solely supported by the Navy League."

May Attend Ramsdale Rites

Funeral services were held yesterday at McCall Bros. Funeral Chapel for the late Sarah Irene Ramsdale, wife of Frederick V. Ramsdale of 2124 Hall Road, who died Oct. 14.

A large gathering of friends attended the service and many flowers filled the chapel.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Ramsdale leaves two sons, Gordon Victor of Victoria and R.P.O. William Ramsdale of the R.C.N.; four grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Jennie Cracknell of Victoria.

Capt. W. Ratcliffe officiated and interment was in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

A. Wooldridge, Nurseryman, Dies Aged 80

Albert B. Wooldridge, president of Wooldridge Bulb Farm Ltd. of Victoria, and its two subsidiary companies, Pacific Flowers Ltd. and Brentwood Greenhouses, died yesterday at his home, 1750 Oak Bay Avenue. He was 80 years old.

Mr. Wooldridge was a native of Tonbridge, Kent, England and came to Canada in 1900, first settling in Winnipeg. In 1920 he moved to Victoria and began, on Gordon Head Road, the bulb farm which later became the Wooldridge Bulb Farm and branched into the other two concerns.

Mr. Wooldridge is survived by his wife, Catherine, at home; two sons, Gordon at 2313 Quadra and Ray of Brentwood; a daughter, Mrs. D. J. Patterson, 2548 Windsor Road; five grandchildren and nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 3 p.m. in the Memorial Chapel of the Chimes of Sands Mortuary with Canon George Biddle officiating. Interment will follow at Royal Oak Burial Park.

NAZIS BROUGHT LUCK

MELBOURNE, Australia (CP)—Mrs. Ida Hampel, a Polish immigrant, won $25,000 in a lottery with a ticket, the number of which was the same as a number tattooed on her sister's arm while she was an inmate of a Nazi concentration camp. The sisters will share the prize.

STOLE SIX CHILDREN

QUEENSTOWN, South Africa, (CP)—Two white farmers and an African laborer have been committed for trial on charges of stealing six children. It was alleged they took the youngsters without the knowledge of the parents and set them to work on farms 1,000 miles away.

In the House of Commons at Ottawa yesterday Col. David Croll (L.—Toronto Spadina) said he had reason to believe that the question of an increase in the pensions of Canada's veterans would be dealt with at the current session of Parliament.

"I am confident," he said, [illegible] in a manner acceptable to our veterans."

Royal Tour Sidelights

A sharp-eyed member of the R.C.M.P. in Regina made sure one small boy saw Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip. The youngster was standing behind a crowd of adults. "Let the boy through—he's the shortest," said the Mountie and the boy moved up just in time to see the Royal couple pass a few feet away.

* * *

Four members of the Calgary R.C.M.P. detachment will ride as mounted escort to the Royal couple today, but the Mounties, whose service is now almost completely motorized, will be riding borrowed horses.

* * *

Back in Regina, something different in the way of gifts was presented to Princess Elizabeth: Mayor Garnet Menzies of the Saskatchewan capital handed her a voucher for 500 bushels of No. 1 Hard wheat or its cash equivalent, with the wheat valued at $2 per bushel.

* * *

Calgary expected that the Princess and Duke of Edinburgh would find another chilly day here, but officials said nothing short of a blizzard and sub-zero temperatures would cause postponement of the outdoor stampede and Indian show prepared for the Royal visitors.

People in the News

With the issuance in Ottawa of the Canadian Army's 64th Korean casualty list, Canada's losses in that conflict rose to 80 dead, 213 wounded, 30 injured and one missing. Latest list named two killed in action, five wounded, and two injured in action. None were from British Columbia.

In Toronto, Premier Leslie Frost has asked Ontario's 3,000,000 voters to re-elect his Progressive Conservative government in the Nov. 22 provincial election so it could go ahead with its program of progress.

* * *

The Senate in Ottawa yesterday heard Senator William Duff of Nova Scotia ask whether six Canadian ships were recently placed under British registry at Hamburg, Germany, and their Canadian crews replaced by British-officered Germans. He was promised replies later.

A strong plea for federal aid to education—an essential factor, he said—has been voiced in Ottawa by Walter Dinsdale, as the newly-elected Progressive Conservative M.P. for Brandon made his maiden Commons speech. Educational institutions, he said, were not carrying additional responsibilities which could not be financed by municipalities and provinces.

From Here and There

Sources in Vatican City assert that the Pope had not disclosed to anyone whether he saw a vision of the Virgin Mary during the 1950 Holy Year. A statement giving that impression, made by Federico Cardinal Tedeschini in Portugal, was interpreted as having a possibly symbolic meaning.

In Tokyo, Japanese police authorities have placed the toll of dead from last Monday's typhoon at 555, with 371 missing and 2,469 injured. The total dead, they added, might increase.

U.S. Senator Homer E. Capehart (R., Ind.) says in Los Angeles he hopes for a "Taft-MacArthur" Republican presidential ticket in the 1952 elections.

Royal Visit First Aid Teams Busy During Stop at Saskatchewan City

REGINA, Oct. 17 (CP).—Saskatchewan's weather was frigid today but the province had a warm, glad hand for Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

The freezing air brought a glow to the nose of the fur-bundled Princess and just about everyone in Regina and surrounding prairie who could [illegible]

The "Queen City of the Prairies" turned out more than half its 70,000 population to see the Royal pair. Thursday morning the couple meet the people of Calgary and the foothills cattle country.

In a typical prairie autumn day, the Princess and her husband felt the first clutch of Saskatchewan's dry cold, saw their first light powdering of snow on a Canadian landscape — and seemed to like it.

Elizabeth and Philip came out well muffled against the three-below-freezing [illegible]

Somewhat stoic Regina, not noted for cutting loose over celebrities, unlimbered to the extent of spending hours in the bitter weather, romping through the crowd-restraining police cordons, and cheering lustily.

Some Reginans stood so long waiting for one more look at the Princess and her burly husband that many had to be taken off for first aid for exposure or exhaustion.

At the Legislature, where the couple spent more than 40 minutes receiving gifts and shaking hands with local notables, at least 20 children were carried from the crowd of 15,000 waiting outside the building.

The Princess wore a distinctively Canadian costume today. She donned for the first time in Canada the full-length mink coat which the Canadian people gave her for her wedding in 1947. She kept herself tightly bundled in it, with the high collar turned up.

For another Canadian touch she wore a maple-leaf clasp atop a brown-velvet coat trimmed in silk braid. Her dress was of brown ribbed silk, and she had a matching brown hat in feathers, with brown accessories.

Princess Sits Calmly, Duke Excited by Show

REGINA, Oct. 17 (CP).—Princess Elizabeth today sat quietly through the R.C.M.P.'s musical ride but the show had her husband on the edge of his seat time after time.

Thirty-two Mounties, in review order with scarlet tunics, put 32 educated horses through a shortened version of the colorful display.

The only time Princess Elizabeth showed emotion was when a rider lost his saddle blanket and hook stirrups. She relaxed when the rider stayed up.

Not so Prince Philip, a keen horseman. Time and again he leaned sharply forward to watch a difficult manoeuvre closely.

It was all spit and polish at the R.C.M.P. barracks. Outside, hundreds of Reginans stood for hours in a cold northwest wind and falling snow to see the Prince and Princess.

Cold weather canceled early plans to hold the ride outdoors.

Later the Royal couple visited the little Anglican Church off the parade square and the R.C.M.P. museum.

Opening of Library Building Recalls 87 Years of History

By ARNIE MYERS

Victoria's Public Library, finally installed in its new home after a hectic two-week moving job, yesterday powdered its nose and had some friends in to tea.

The friends were led by Mayor Percy George, who offi- [illegible] doors leading into the library's glittering new extension on Blanshard Street.

The opening ceremony was a dream come true for the library staff, who for years have hankered for more storage and working space.

The four-story addition pro- [illegible] a little margin for growth.

It represents a long climb from the two rented rooms in the Hibben-Carswell building on lower Yates Street where the Mechanics Institute in 1864 opened the reading room that was to grow into today's modern library.

The library, growing constantly, has changed its home half a dozen times since the Mechanics Institute began circulating its 450 volumes. Today, the library distributes 85,000 volumes among 30,000 members.

The first move was in 1871, to the Turner Building on the north-east corner of Fort and Government. In 1887, it was moved to the Philharmonic Building on Fort Street, where Devonshire House now stands.

The institute, which had amalgamated with the Young Men's Literary Institute, charged its members $1 a month for the privilege of reading such works as "The Trial of the Honorable Admiral Byng," published in 1757, and a dozen volumes of sermons published in 1748 by Dr. John Tillotson, Archbishop of Canterbury.

The institute also went in strongly for British, American and Colonial newspapers. In 1865 the governor of the colony offered the institute one of its first gifts—his used copies of the London Gazette, which were to be kept properly filed and to be returned when needed.

The Mechanics Institute, which was chronically in financial trouble, tried to raise funds for its library at its annual picnics.

At one of these, an early Colonist news story relates, James Fell, an institute leader, posed as a Hindu mystic and set himself up in the fortune-telling business in a little cabin in Medina's Grove.

One miner paid his half-dollar for a reading. Then the crowd discovered the hoax and tore the cabin apart.

"No money was made for the library," the story says, "but the [illegible] rough pleasantry of that sort could upset the smiling, imperturbable good nature of Mr. James Fell."

Eventually the mechanics donated their book stock—grown to 4,150 volumes—to the city. Victoria's first free public library opened on Broad Street May 11, 1889.

The library kept its members segregated by sexes, with ladies' names in one book and gentlemen's in another. The books are still in the library vault.

First woman to register was Mrs. John Robson, wife of the premier and grandmother of present Ald. Dr. J. D. Hunter, chairman of the library board's building committee.

In 1891 the library moved into the city hall. Finances were still a problem, and in 1902 the library accepted a $50,000 grant from the Carnegie trust.

A $700 gift from hotelkeeper Stephen Jones bought the library its present site, and on April 6, 1904, the cornerstone was laid. The library was open for business Jan. 2, 1906.

Development into a full-scale modern library dates from the reign of Dr. Helen Stewart, librarian from 1911 to 1924.

Dr. Stewart reorganized the library, improved the book stock, did away with the closed-stack system, introduced the Dewey decimal classification system and made the library one of the most efficient on the coast.

Since Dr. Stewart left, the library has been run by Miss Margaret Clay, oldest employee in point of service on the library's staff of 49. She plans to retire as soon as things are operating smoothly in the new building.

Miss Clay has fought for years for more space for the library. On Dec. 8, 1949, she won her battle, when city voters passed a by-law authorizing the raising of $350,000 for the new addition.

Passage of the by-law was the biggest hurdle, but there were others.

The library staff had to clear the old, two-story building at the corner of Yates and Blanshard. Much of the reference stock was stored in the public market. The rest of the library moved into temporary quarters in the Pantorium building at Quadra and Fort.

Then the staff fretted out the two-year building period, worrying over changes in plans, building delays and the English dockyard strikes that held up shipment of new steel stacks.

Finally the new building was completed and the old structure completely remodeled. The library staff had one last spree of lending, letting members take out as many books as they could carry.

The main floor of the old building is a children's department, with one large section for school children and another for tots.

Upstairs is the music room, with special shelves for musical scores and a planned record lending department.

Main floor houses the circulation department, with its photographic loan-recording machine.

On the second floor is the expanded reference department, with long reading tables and plastic-covered copies of hundreds of magazines.

The processing, ordering and cataloguing departments are on the third floor. On the top are the reference stacks and the bindery.

Old Friends Ready for Greeting

Staff member Susan Thuilliea and long-nosed puppet Pinocchio, a library fixture for 15 years, are ready to greet moppets in renovated children's room in old section of library.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Hunger Defeats Prison Mutineers

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Oct. 17 (AP)—Hunger overcame a mutiny of 1,300 convicts at West Virginia state prison today.

They rushed for their cells when the warden offered food.

Their last meal was Tuesday noon. All night they had milled in the two-acre exercise yard, under the guns of 90 guards on the 40-foot walls, shouting for better food and clothing.

Safety Helmet Causes Injury

PORTSMOUTH, N.H., Oct. 17 (AP)—As protection from falling objects, employees at the Portsmouth navy yard wear [illegible] ator of a crane leaned out of his cab to shout at a fellow worker below. The operator's heavy chapeau fell off, striking the man on the ground, who suffered a broken nose.

Office Sought

CAMPBELL RIVER, Oct. 17—The Unemployment Insurance Commission will again be asked [illegible] Campbell River. Members of the Chamber of Commerce say that with the rapid growth of the village and the large turnover of labor in the district that such an office is a necessity.

Betting Odds Rise Against Attlee

LONDON, Oct. 17 (AP)—Heavy betting on Winston Churchill's Conservatives to win the Oct. 25 election today drove the odds still higher against the Labor government.

In the books of Douglas Stuart, one of the country's biggest bet-takers, backers of Prime Minister Clement Attlee's Labor party must put up £2 to win £7. Conservative supporters must bet £9 to win £2.

The odds reflect the weight of betting money on both sides, not the bookies' opinions, a Stuart spokesman said. A few days ago Stuart was offering 3 to 1 against Labor and 1 to 4 against the Conservatives.

Junco Sparrows' Influx Seen as Omen of Winter

An ornithological prediction of winter has been reported by Mrs. E. F. Hopkinson, 2115 Lorne Terrace.

Mrs. Hopkinson, who feeds birds in her back yard as a time-consuming hobby, reports that Tuesday morning her back yard, clothesline, and neighboring fences, were completely filled with the common vesper sparrows which had frequented

"There must have been at least 200 birds," she states.

Yesterday morning, however, there was not a sparrow in sight.

But around noon, a new crop of wild life arrived. These were junco sparrows, the first arrivals of the season.

And, says Mrs. Hopkinson, junco sparrows are sure harbingers of winter.

Premier's Aunt Dies at Age 90

Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, aunt of Premier Byron I. Johnson, died in Victoria last week.

Mrs. Johnson, 90, widow of John Burns Johnson, was an early resident of the Sooke district, moving there from her native Iceland some 30 years ago.

Also surviving Mrs. Johnson are a son, Byron P., and a daughter, Margaret S.

Steady Flow of Missionaries Leaving China for Hong Kong

An average of five to 10 priests and sisters are arriving in Hong Kong daily from various parts of China, some expelled, some because it was impossible to remain, according to news received by Mrs. C. G. Beeching of 444 Transit Road.

Mrs. Beeching's cousin, Bishop Martin O'Gara, is held prisoner by Chinese Reds.

A copy of The Hunan News sent to Mrs. Beeching reports her cousin is held in jail and subjected to many humiliating experiences. Christian Chinese are not allowed to enter churches and every opportunity is seized by the Communists to make life in China impossible for church officials.

Dr. J. Pearce Will Address Prize Assembly

Dr. Joseph A. Pearce will address the annual award assembly at Victoria College tomorrow morning.

Dr. Pearce, director emeritus of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory and immediate past president of the Royal Society of Canada, will speak on "The Spirit of Science."

Awards totaling more than $3,500 will be made to students at the assembly, according to Dr. W. H. Hickman, chairman of the school's scholarship committee.

Among those present at the assembly will be bursary donors, representatives of clubs and business organizations, and individuals donating scholarships.

Inquiry to Hear Percy Rayment

Percy Rayment, secretary of Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) will take the stand today at the final hearings of the Royal Commission on the Workmen's Compensation Board, the council was told last night.

ANGLERS' BAR BANK

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP).—The rear wall of a bar in a Rangitikei River hotel is decorated with bank notes given to the barman to pin up for use when anglers meet friends. Prize exhibit is a bankbook with a credit of $200. "A chap left the money so we put it in the bank until he wants it," explains the barman.

U.S. Backs British Bid For New Oil Parley

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP).—Warren R. Austin, United States chief delegate, gave his full support to a plea by Britain for new oil talks with Iran under the eyes of the United Nations.

Replying to repeated objections from Premier Mossadegh of Iran that the council had no business interfering in Iran's oil muddle, Austin said that the council clearly, under the charter, has the "right and duty" to inquire into the situation and to try to keep peace.

The British move for resumption of talks in a different atmosphere already has been rejected by Mossadegh.

Austin said the British solution as amended, was "designed to perform the great purpose of the United Nations of endeavoring to bring the two parties nearer together until a dispute can be resolved in agreement."

The proposal is threatened with a Soviet veto. Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin commented Tuesday that the council should not interfere in Iran's affairs.

Mossadegh had an aide read documents taken from the files of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, which he said, showed that the company had interfered in affairs in Iran. He said the "bad conduct" of the company and the budgetary deficiencies of the country were the cause of the nationalization of the nation's oil.

Mossadegh thanked the council for its courtesy in hearing him and said his duties called him back to Tehran.

BRAZIL CROPS BOOM

RIO DE JANERIO (CP).—Good crops in the Amazon area of Brazil are causing a welcome boom in agriculture. Good returns are being obtained this year by growers of jute, rubber, nuts and oilseed. The Brazil nut crop may reach 30,000 tons, or 8,800 higher than last year.

Junior Sea Cadet Plan Adopted Across Canada

The Junior Sea Cadets Corps established in Victoria two years ago has been so successful that the idea is being adopted across Canada, the Victoria branch of the Navy League of Canada was told at its recent annual meeting.

Sea cadet committee chairman Capt. F. G. Hart, in a summary of the group's activities, noted that it has 115 boys between 12 and 14 years old, under supervision of Lieut. Jerry Bishop.

FAMOUS FLIGHT

Twin engines of the plane that Alcock and Brown flew over the Atlantic in 1919 had a total of only 720 horsepower.

But Records Broken

U.S. Lumber Shipments Slowed by Car Shortage

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 17 (Special)— For the first time this year Douglas fir sawmills during the latter part of September felt the pinch of a freight car shortage.

The shortage accounted for a drop of about 2,500 in the number of cars of lumber shipped in September, compared to August totals, Harris E. Smith, secretary of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association, reported.

Smith said the shortage was felt mostly in Oregon and northern California where mills reported receiving at times only half their requirements. Supply is better now in both regions, although only about 80 per cent of normal.

Despite this late season car shortage, Smith reports that mills in the Douglas fir region have shipped over 300,000,000 more feet of lumber during the first 39 weeks of 1951 than during the like period in 1950 when all records for the region were broken. Production too, is maintaining a 580,000,000 foot lead over last year's record breaking output.

The weekly average of west coast lumber production in September was 208,761,000 board feet or 116.1 per cent of the 1946-1950 average. Orders averaged 202,500,000 board feet; shipments 200,993,000 board feet.

Weekly averages for August were: production 221,781,000 board feet (123.4 per cent of the 1946-1950 average); orders 195,365,000 board feet; shipments 208,212,000 board feet.

Thirty-nine weeks of 1951 cumulative production 8,465,686,000 board feet; thirty nine weeks of 1950, 7,878,654,000 board feet; thirty-nine weeks of 1949, 7,277,897,000 board feet.

Stock Market's Decline Heaviest in Two Months

By AP and CP

In the heaviest decline in more than two months, the New York Stock Exchange yesterday sank despite the bolstering influence of numerous individually strong stocks.

The decline, which never became urgent, carried prices down around a point among leaders with a sprinkling of losses into the two and three-point range with some going beyond. The downside of course was more crowded.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 60 cents at $100.40.

Volume came to only 1,460,000 shares.

TORONTO CLIMBS

Toronto Stock Market prices edged higher toward the session's close. Industrials opened strongly, weakened during the first hour and continued irregular during the mid-session.

Volume was about 3,700,000 shares.

Utilities and agricultures shared the lead as the market's strongest sections.

MONTREAL MIXED

Stock prices continued mixed toward the close on the Montreal Stock Exchange and Curb Market. Trading was moderate.

Changes were for the most part fractional.

Industrials and senior metals mixed plus and minus signs. Papers showed a majority of advances.

VANCOUVER VARIED

Golds eased slightly, base metal mine shares were higher and oils were mixed on the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

WINNIPEG RECEDES

Early advances in coarse grain futures prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange were reduced or erased in the last half of yesterday's session.

Selling and hedging sales increased in the last half hour. Some appeared to be prompted by an easier tone at Chicago.

London Market Hits Firm Note

LONDON, Oct. 17 (Reuters)—Shaking off an initial mood of depression, the stock market made steady progress today to close on a firm note.

British Government stocks emerged with scattered small gains and there were improvements of 3d to 6d in industrials.

Breweries, however, were a dull market, reflecting a sharp fall in beer output in August.

Oils opened lower but quickly recovered and moved higher. Initial sharp losses in foreign bonds were replaced by equally sharp gains. German Government and potash loans were again in demand.

Local and continental inquiry gave firmness to coppers. Gold shares were harder where changed.

Stock closings: Babcock & Wilcox, 80s, ex-dividends; Boots Pure Drug, 26s 6d; Canadian Pacific, $73.25; Central Mining, £2⅝; Consolidated Gold Fields, 53s 1½d; Courtaulds, 50s 10½d; Hudson's Bay Co., 157s 3d; Imperial Chemical, 52s 3d; Imperial Tobacco, 105s 7½d; Metal Box, 55s 3d; Mexican Eagle, 27s 3d; Rand Mines, 141s 3d.

Bonds: British 2½% Consols, £65⅝; British 3½% War Loans, £87 7/16; British Fundings, 4's, 1960-1990, £103¾.

Foreign Exchange

MONTREAL, Oct. 17 (CP) — The American dollar today closed at 5 5-32 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, down 3-32 from Tuesday's close. That is, it took $1.05 5-32 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.94 7-16, down ¼ from Tuesday.

Business Notes

EDMONTON, Oct. 17 (CP).—Crown oil rights in most of Alberta's promising new oil-strike areas will be put on the auction block Nov. 8 by the provincial government.

Rights in proven Leduc, Woodbend and Redwater sections also will be sold in the first big cash-bonus-bid sale in three months.

Another feature will be the auction of 65,440 acres of government natural gas reservations in the southeastern Pakowki Lake fields area. It is from this area the first export of Alberta natural gas will go, as a "limited defense production emergency measure," to the Anaconda Copper Mining Company in Montana.

OTTAWA, Oct. 17 (CP).—A drive to boost prairie production through greater use of submarginal ground continued to make headway in 1950.

New irrigation projects were undertaken and community pastures expanded to help farmers fight drought and increase production of livestock and grains. The federal cost during 1950 was $3,470,000.

This was disclosed today in the annual report of the agriculture department's prairie farm rehabilitation branch, tabled in the Commons.

OTTAWA, Oct. 17 (CP).—Factory shipments of Canadian-made motor vehicles during August declined 10 per cent from the corresponding month a year ago, the Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Shipments totaled 21,833, as against 24,272 in August last year, bringing the eight-month total to 299,902 units compared with 256,168.

CALGARY, Oct. 17 (CP).—Top price of 65 cents a pound was paid for a 1,160-pound Hereford steer exhibited by Everett Bennett of Airdrie, which yesterday won the baby beef grand championship at the fall stock show and sale here.

Bud Laveck of Airdrie won reserve grand champion with a Hereford which brought the second top price of 50 cents a pound. Good bidding was a sale feature, with the average per pound around 37 cents.

BONDS GENERALLY QUIET

MONTREAL, Oct. 17 (CP).—Some interest was shown in short-term Government of Canada issues today on the Montreal Bond Markets, but the list was generally quiet and unchanged. C.P.R. convertibles were slightly stronger on the corporate market.

Further inflation for at least one or two years can be expected unless there is a genuine peace proposal from Soviet sources, according to a news report of Pemberton Securities Ltd.

From information available there would appear to be no change of heart by the Kremlin hierarchy to reverse its policy for a genuine peace proposal, the report says.

"Therefore, the report continues, inflation can be expected for probably two years. This will mean a rise in earnings before taxes of most corporations, in particular those engaged in supplying essential raw materials.

"As we are endowed in the West with many of the world's critical raw materials, it would seem reasonable, given good management, to expect the companies in extractive industries to continue with the prevailing upward earnings trend during this period of inflation," the report said.

The report warns, however, that it must be kept in mind the Kremlin might reverse its present policies if it sees that its aims are not being accomplished.

A consequent sharp reduction in rearmament spending, caused by the peace, would have a serious deflationary effect on practically all basic industries resulting in a serious drop in the prices of most buoyant stocks, the report says.

The theoretical depreciation could be alleviated by a relief and rehabilitation plan to build up backward areas with goods and services now employed for rearmament, the report says.

Banks May Work Five-Day Week

OTTAWA, Oct. 17 (CP)—Finance Minister D. C. Abbott said today that a request from the banks for permission to operate on a five-day week is being considered.

Canadian Woolen Goods Unsurpassed, Group Told

WINNIPEG, Oct. 17 (CP) — Canadian manufacturers will match their goods against any, confident that they cannot be bested, George H. Carr of Sherbrooke, Que., president of the Canadian Woolen and Knit Goods Manufacturers' Association, said today in his address to the association's annual meeting.

"But," he asked, "are we active enough in our efforts to convince other Canadians of our superiority?"

The industry, Mr. Carr said, is at present "caught in a rather severe recession, which would be even worse in some branches were it not for government military orders, themselves of a temporary nature.

"The industry has some problems, such as high costs, credit restrictions, heavy pressure from imports, and generally poor business.

"However, we at least have the experience that has weathered similar storms, some prospects of lower wool prices for the time being, and the hopes that buying will return to a reasonable level once current inventories are liquidated."

He said Canada has always imported large quantities of wool cloth "and the very nature of these imports puts domestic mills at a disadvantage.

WAGES HIGHER

"Approximately 86 per cent of all imports come from Britain. As Canadian wages are more than double British rates for comparable jobs, and the duty collected on U.K. woolens now averages about 13½ per cent, it is extremely difficult for the home industry to compete on anywhere near even terms.

"Canadian wool cloth mills supplied 64 per cent of Canadian consumption in 1949 and today supply only 54 per cent, while the knitting industry, equipped to supply clothing for the unique Canadian climate, has watched a market they once supplied almost entirely, shrink by 20 per cent.

"Before the Second World War Canada was the world's largest exporter of ladies' full-fashioned hosiery.

"However, once-good customers are today operating under dollar restrictions and the trade has dwindled to almost nothing."

More Snow on Alberta Crops Halts Last-Ditch Harvest Try

EDMONTON, Oct. 17 (CP).—Scattered snow flurries swirled down on Alberta's battered crops today, halting last-ditch harvesting attempts.

A. M. Wilson, Alberta field crops commissioner, held out only a ray of hope for farmers watching an expected bumper crop turn white.

"It's touch and go whether we'll ever get the crop off," he said. "But, the situation could change. In southern Alberta a chinook could probably dry the grain."

The weather man didn't provide a cheerful note.

He predicted at least four more days of freezing weather for the prairies.

MORE COLD AIR

"There's a big reservoir of cold air in the Mackenzie basin," said an Edmonton forecaster. "Only about half has passed us on the way south."

Mr. Wilson said farmers still hope to get the crop into granaries, but "they realize the chances are getting slimmer every day."

He estimated only 25 per cent of Alberta's crop is harvested.

Harvesting east of Edmonton continued until today, Mr. Wilson said, but today's wet snow must have shut everything down.

Aid to Prairie Farms Runs Up $308,354 Bill

OTTAWA, Oct. 17 (CP)—A federal-provincial plan to help poverty-stricken western farmers pay for such things as seed grain and animal feed has cost the federal government $308,354 in the first nine months of 1951.

A resources department return, tabled in the Commons today, estimated the federal loss on advances to farmers in Manitoba is $1,711; Saskatchewan, $109,790; Alberta, $196,782; British Columbia, $262,542.

Final plans for war veterans to line the parade route during the Royal visit have now been completed, Major George Yardley, parade marshal announced yesterday.

On Sunday the veterans will line Fort Street from Blanshard to Cook. They will fall in outside the Royal Theatre at 4:30 p.m. and march to the parade route.

Monday the men will line both driveways and the front of the legislative buildings during the Royal inspection. They will fall in at 8:30 a.m. on Quadra Street near Menzies. Medals and berets will be worn on both parades.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

THE "SEVEN WONDERS OF THE WORLD"

"It is one of the seven wonders of the world," you say about something that strikes you as at the apex of the extraordinary, the fantastic, the unbelievable, the super-duper. Some persons allude to such an object or circumstance as an "eighth wonder of the world," assuming the other seven, perhaps, as our correspondent suggests, without knowing anything about them.

The saying is an allusion to the seven wonders of antiquity. As the versifier described them:

The Pyramids first, which in Egypt were laid;
Then Babylon's Gardens for Amytis made;
Third, Mausolus' Tomb of affection and guilt;
Fourth, the Temple of Dian in Ephesus built;
Fifth, Colossus of Rhodes, cast in brass, to the sun;
Sixth, Jupiter's Statue, by Phidias done;
The Pharos of Egypt, last wonder of old,
Or the Palace of Cyrus, cemented with gold.

To return to prose, the seven wonders were: the pyramids of Egypt, the hanging gardens of Babylon, the tomb of Mausolus, the temple of Diana at Ephesus, the Collossus of Rhodes, the statue of Zeus by Phidias, the Pharos of Egypt, or else the palace of Cyrus cemented with gold.

The "Pharos of Egypt," which shares the honors as the seventh wonder, alludes to a lighthouse built on the island of this name lying west of the Egyptian coast. It was begun by Ptolemy I., and finished under his son, Ptolemy Philadelphus, about 282 B.C. Other lighthouses of antiquity were named Pharos, but it is this one that became an alternate choice for the honor of being the seventh wonder of the world.

Danger of Hangnail

By DR. J. B. WARREN

We think of a hangnail as just a common nuisance but if it is pulled from skin carelessly and hand has some harmful organisms on it severe infection and sometimes death may occur.

Wherever bleeding, even from a scratch, occurs it should be treated as a wound with the thought of what might occur if untreated. Washing with soap and water and still better with any antiseptic solution—boracic acid, weak solution of lysol (carbolic acid) or iodine and putting one layer of gauze over it lets air get at it and helps to heal it in a short time.

Will Supply School Desks

The Mothers' Auxiliary of St. Ann's Academy met recently at the academy with Mrs. A. Smith presiding.

The 85 mothers present were informed that the project for the year was to supply desks for the Grade V classroom.

A door prize of a cup and saucer, donated by Mrs. S. Gitt[illegible], was won by Mrs. E. Holmes.

A film will be held on Oct. 29 in the academy.

Sister Superior Mary Lucas read a very instructive paper on child psychology and character training.

The next meeting will be the second Monday of November.

Annual Harvest Bazaar Today

Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie Chapter, I.O.D.E., will hold the annual harvest bazaar and tea on Thursday at headquarters. The affair will be opened by Mrs. W. C. Nichol at 2.30 p.m. Tea will be served at 3.15.

There will be a table of home cooking and home-made candy, also a miscellaneous table of bulbs, fruits, plants and vegetables.

The regular meeting will be held on the following day, Oct. 19, at 2 p.m.

Pioneer Spirit Seen as Need For Progress

Children must be shown the spirit of the pioneers so that future development of British Columbia may keep pace with the accomplishments of the past 100 years, Willard Ireland, provincial librarian, told a meeting of the S. J. Willis Parent Teacher Association.

"Knowledge of the country's past is important to children," Mr. Ireland said, "but a scheme of chronology should be taught rather than stressing details of exact dates, names of kings and battles."

The S. J. Willis P.T.A. was formed a month ago. At the next meeting a "cup and saucer" shower will be featured so that refreshments can be served at meetings.

REALLY MIXED FARMING

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—John Bombaci thinks anything can be grown in Nova Scotia that can be grown in his native sunny Italy. He grows tobacco, peanuts, ground peaches, almonds, grapes, watermelon, lettuce, broccoli, egg plants and snake cucumbers. He also has a spattering of castor oil plants.

Compensation Official To Inspect City Plants

The hygiene officer of the Workmen's Compensation Board will inspect some Victoria operations in which workmen handle fibre glass.

The notice was given Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council last night in a letter from the board. The council is seeking preventive measures against skin and lung ailments, allegedly caused by workmen handling the material.

The officer will be asked to visit Victoria when full operations resume at Victoria Machinery Depot and Yarrows Ltd. Both yards are presently on limited operations because of a strike of the Boilermakers' Union.

Gordon Roper New Director Of Jaycees

Gordon Roper and John Ledger were last night named director and second vice-president, respectively of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The men won the offices in a by-election caused by resignations from the chamber.

Appointment of J. Donald Smith of Victoria, provincial vice-president of the junior chamber, as international relations chairman for B.C. was also announced last night.

Mr. Smith announced plans for an "international night" to be held Nov. 17. Guests from Seattle and Port Angeles will be present as well as local representatives of the 32 other countries were junior chambers of commerce are found.

Gasworkers Win Boost In Wages

An average wage increase of 22 cents hourly to be given in three successive steps during a 28-month contract, has been signed by nearly 60 gasworkers in Victoria employed by the B.C. Electric Company.

The initial increase of 10 per cent is retroactive to Sept. 1. The second raise of five per cent takes effect Jan. 1 and the final five per cent increase comes Jan. 1, 1953.

About 235 workers in Vancouver also are effected. The new contract, with an average wage rate of $1.44 hourly, will cost the company more than $311,000.

Egg Prices Said on Verge Of Collapse

NEW WESTMINSTER, Oct. 17 (CP) — Herbert Rutter, produce manager of Burns and Company and a director of the Canadian Produce Council, said today egg prices across Canada are on the verge of collapse.

At a meeting of poultrymen here, he said the industry was facing "chaotic conditions" and farmers must expect "drastic results."

Mr. Rutter said the Canadian wholesale trade would be burdened with an unmarketable surplus of 600,000 to 700,000 cases of eggs by the end of the year.

The impending egg glut had been caused by a 25 per cent increase in the baby chick hatch this spring, he said.

The Produce Council had been turned down by Ottawa in a request for a 10 per cent increase in the floor price of eggs. Current floor price is 28 cents a dozen.

Boilermakers Undertaking New Union Ties

Boilermakers' Union members, now affiliated as a Trades and Labor Congress federal union, soon will have affiliation with the International Boilermakers' Union.

This was reported last night by John Martin, boilermaker union delegate to the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (A.F.L.-T.L.C.). He said the Victoria local is now enrolling its members in affiliation with international, which will make the Victoria body much stronger.

A recent union vote by secret ballot on the proposed new affiliation was given approval on 77 per cent of the ballots cast, he said.

Woman Offers Reward For Return of Purse

A woman visitor to Victoria from Juneau, Alaska, has requested the aid of The Colonist in finding her purse, containing money, jewelry and personal papers, which she lost yesterday.

The money is of secondary importance to Mrs. Hilda Hanna who is most interested in recovering the jewelry, gifts from her late husband, which was contained in the purse.

She is also anxious to recover the papers, without which she may have difficility in returning to her home.

Mrs. Hanna may be reached at the home of Mrs. B. Bacon, 3700 Epsom Drive, or by phoning G 4512. A reward for the return of the purse is offered.

Clerk Raps Railways In Britain

LONDON, Oct. 17 (CP).—A railway clerk set out one Saturday to take his wife and two children on a 50-mile journey to the seaside. They never did get there.

So the clerk wrote an indignant letter to his member of parliament, saying he was "thoroughly disgusted" with the British railway system.

The Saturday outing to Hunstanton, Norfolk, should have taken only 2½ hours. Instead the family blundered into one misfortune after another, including misinformation, switched trains, delayed trains and platform misunderstandings. After seven hours in trains and on platforms, they gave up and went home.

Harmar Nicholls, Conservative member for Peterborough, Northants, forwarded the complaint to railway authorities with a wry comment that more people are traveling by bus these days. Nicholls said he may raise the matter in parliament when it reassembles in November.

DENTAL SERVICE

OSLO (CP) — The Standard Telephone and Cable Company, one of Oslo's largest industrial plants, has opened its own dental office, first of its kind in Norway. Staffed by two dentists, the office will operate as an adjunct to the company's medical centre.

Coalition Said Aiding Communism

VANCOUVER, Oct. 17 (CP) — Lyle Wicks, president of the British Columbia Social Credit League, said tonight the province's coalition government is "an instrument of communism."

In an address over a Vancouver radio station, Mr. Wicks said that shortly after the last provincial election one of the members of the cabinet was reported as saying "we are going to tax the people and make them like it."

"It was Karl Marx," Mr. Wicks said, "who once stated 'If you want to defeat capitalism, the way to do it is to tax, tax, tax'."

"Here is the paradox of a capitalistic government adopting a tenet of communism."

Mr. Wicks listed these "things for which coalition is responsible and which have aided communism": Compulsory automobile insurance, the social security and municipal aid tax (three per cent sales tax) and the hospital insurance scheme.

PERSONAL REMINDER

WADENA, Sask. (CP).—Ole Ingulsrud, 88, can tell you the day of the week for any date in 1885 at a glance. He saved his calendar of that year that he brought when he traveled as a young man from Norway.

COLCHESTER, Essex, England (CP) — Nursery schools which have started cookery classes for children between three and four years old say the toddlers are taking to cooking like ducks to water. Last Christmas the children made an iced cake.

Victoria Labor Council Passes Four Resolutions on Pensions

Four resolutions covering old age pensions in British Columbia were passed last night by Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (A.F.L.-T.L.C.).

The resolutions ask:

That the present bonus paid pensioners in the province continue to be paid those over 70 years of age when the national scheme is introduced.

That pensioners in the 65-69 year age group receive the provincial bonus.

That all pensioners receive hospital and medical care.

That the special session of the legislature next week authorize legislation to take in all persons in the 65-69 age group immediately as pensioners, rather than possibly over a period of years.

Two Crewmen Divert Plane To Flee Reds

ZURICH, Oct. 17 (INS).—Two crewmen kidnapped a Yugoslav National Airways plane today and landed in Switzerland with 21 unwilling occupants, including a rope-bound radio operator.

The rebel pilot, named Bjalanovic, said:

"We could not support any longer the regime of terror under Tito's police."

The two rebel crewmen who plotted the escape from Communist-ruled Yugoslavia told police at the Zurich International Airport that they had chosen freedom and they asked asylum for themselves and their families.

The two men had their wives and several children aboard the plane.

The craft was on a regular flight between Ljubljana and Belgrade. The two crewmen said that when the plane neared Zagreb they suddenly announced their decision to head for Switzerland.

The two men pushed aside two protesting crewmen and tied up another, the radio operator, so that he could not tip off Yugoslav authorities.

Three crewmen and all the passengers aside from the families of the two rebel airmen told police they wanted to return to Yugoslavia.

Chief Hopes To Revive Costume Work

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask., Oct. 17 (CP)—Chief Swimmer of the Sweetgrass Indian Reserve says the making of Indian costumes is a dying art among his people—and he wants to see it revived.

He has made a public request for caribou, antelope and deer hides, and lots of eagle feathers and beads.

The chief will pay freight charges on any hides shipped to him. If he gets enough, he says he will put the women on his reserve to work at tanning them and making them into coats, leggings and dresses.

Chief Swimmer says Indians should be as proud of their native dress as are other citizens of Canada. His first objective is to see that his sons and grandchildren are properly outfitted for ceremonial occasions.

His idea for reviving costume-making started several weeks ago when the chief and his head men accepted invitations from various promoters of sports events to put on colorful Indian twilight pow-wows.

The chief found he could rustle up only five native costumes on his reserve, and only two of them were complete.

But the pay-off came after the men donned the costumes.

The tribal children took one look and giggled.

Venezuela is well ahead with projects to irrigate 70,000 acres of farmland.

Culbertson on Bridge - - - -

(Copyright 1951, by Ely Culbertson)

Two of the country's most highly publicized bridge players had much fault to find with each other's defense in the following deal.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ Q J
♥ K Q 9 7 2
♦ K 10 6
♣ 8 5 4

WEST
♠ A 8 5
♥ 10 4 3
♦ A J 9 8 7
♣ Q 6

EAST
♠ 10 9 6 4 3 2
♥ 8 5
♦ 3 2
♣ K 10 9

SOUTH
♠ K 7
♥ A J 6
♦ Q 5 4
♣ A J 7 3 2

This was the bidding in a high-stake rubber game:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	1 ♦	1 ♥	Pass
1 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

South wisely refused to raise his partner's hearts, although he had good support, because his hand as a whole was not strong enough to invite a game-trick contract. The defense scarcely could have been bad enough to let North make four hearts, but South did "steal" the three-no-trump contract.

West opened the diamond nine. Dummy's ten held the trick, and declarer then boldly led the spade queen. (Something drastic had to be done if declarer was to have any chance for the contract.) East carefully played the spade six on the queen, but West, not wanting to give up his entry, held up the ace.

Declarer then ran off the five heart tricks and East discarded three spades! That removed the spade menace, and South simply established another diamond trick to round out his contract.

East scolded West for not observing East's spade "signal"—i.e., for not taking the spade ace and returning the suit, keeping a third spade with which to put East on a lead. West, for his part, retorted that his own refusal to take the spade trick had not been a sound reason for East to discard three spades!

It seems obvious that West was entirely right! First, East might well have played the spade nine or ten as a more emphatic signal; second, it was giving up for East to discard three spades. There was no point in East's trying to keep club protection if South had the A Q of clubs. East-West were goners.

Uncle Wiggily Story - - -

By Howard Garis

Uncle Wiggily was hiding with Mr. Chuck in the burrow hole from which there was no way out except in front. But neither the rabbit gentleman nor the groundhog gentleman dared go out in front because of the three foxes waiting there on guard.

To make sure the foxes were on the alert, and ready to rush at them if he and Mr. Chuck ventured out of the hole, Uncle Wiggily, a little while before, had raised his hat on a stick. At once the hat had been stoned by Reginald Fox, his wife, Matilda, and the box fox, Clarence. The hat had been dented and several holes were knocked in it.

"That's what would happen to us if we went out," said Mr. Chuck.

"I thought you said you were going to play a trick on the foxes, Chuckie," said Uncle Wiggily.

"I am," was the answer. "Just hand me three potatoes from your basket, Wiggy. But wait a moment. I think I shall need four potatoes."

"But there are only three foxes," spoke the rabbit. "If you are a good shot, Chuckie, three potatoes will be all that you need to hit those foxes on their noses."

"My trick isn't to hit the foxes on their noses," said Mr. Chuck.

"Then what is your trick, Chuckie?"

"I want to make the foxes run away so we can run out. So I will need four potatoes. Just bend down your ears again, Wiggy, and pop one eye out of this hole. Tell me what the foxes are doing."

Uncle Wiggily bent down his long ears, he popped up one eye, took a look and popped his eye down again before the foxes could see him to throw stones at him.

"What are the foxes doing, Wiggy?"

"They are sitting on their hind legs in a half circle, watching this hole, Chuckie," answered the rabbit.

"Are their faces turned toward our hideaway hole, Wiggy?"

"Yes, Chuckie, they are."

"Well, now, if I have luck, I am going to turn the foxes around so their backs will be toward us," said the woodchuck. "Just let me get up where you are, close to the outside of the hole. This is the first part of the trick. The second part will follow in just a moment."

Uncle Wiggily moved back farther into the hole and Mr. Chuck moved up closer to the outside doorway. The woodchuck suddenly threw one of the potatoes Mr. Longears had taken from the basket. He threw it high up in the air and over the heads of the three foxes. They were looking with all their eyes at the hole so they didn't see the potato flying over their heads.

"Thump!" the potato fell into the bushes behind the foxes.

"Take a look, Wiggy," said Mr. Chuck as he moved back into the hole. "What do you see now?"

Mr. Longears looked with one eye. Then he said, "The foxes have turned around. Their backs are toward this hole. They can't see us. Shall we rush out now, Chuckie?"

"Not yet. The trick isn't finished," replied Mr. Chuck. "I have three more potatoes to throw but I don't want the foxes to see me throw them. Back in here again, Wiggy, and I will go up front."

While the foxes had their backs turned, Mr. Chuck threw one potato to the right. He threw another potato to the left. Then he tossed one in the middle over the heads of the foxes into the bushes beyond them.

"Come on, daddy and mother!" yapped the boy fox. "Uncle Wiggily and Mr. Chuck must have run out of the back door. But we'll catch them."

Not knowing there wasn't a back door to the burrow hole, the three foxes suddenly ran away in three different ways through the bushes, toward the potato noises.

"Now is our chance, Wiggy! Come on! Hop fast!" whistled the woodchuck.

He and the rabbit popped out of the hole before the foxes knew that a trick had been played on them. Uncle Wiggily was soon safe in his bungalow with the potatoes. Mr. Chuck was soon safe in his burrow home with the supper clover. And the foxes were very angry when they knew they had been tricked.

So if the puppy dog doesn't eat huckleberry pie and get his teeth so black that he can't go to the pussy cat's party, I will tell you another story on Monday.

Building Managers Told to Organize for Air Raids

Managers of apartments or other large buildings are responsible for the people in them in the event of an air raid, civil defence co-ordinator Leonard Hatcher told members of the Victoria Real Estate Board yesterday.

"You have got to lay on an organization and have someone on each floor who knows what to do," he warned the real estate agents at the Empress Hotel meeting.

He said that if this was organized before an emergency and continually kept up to date there would be no panic if there was an air raid.

"I want you to join with me and set up such an organization in the buildings that you control," he said.

Mr. Hatcher said that Victoria was a possible target area in the event of an air attack and that it was close to other target areas across the border.

"It is well known that the Russians have developed a plane with a range of 10,000 miles and the inference is that it is intended to bomb America," he warned.

Mr. Hatcher said the reason England didn't "go down" in 1939 was because there was "some sort" of an organization and everyone had something to do.

"That is what I am trying to do in Victoria," he said. "I have about 500 civil defense volunteers now training."

Young Scholar Doing Well At U.K. School

John Paynter, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Paynter of 1226 Hampshire Road, is doing very well at his new school in Scotland—particularly in rugger.

In three letters to his mother, John proudly relates that he has already scored "several trys" for his rugby team.

The boy left Victoria last month on a J. P. Carter scholarship. He was one of two Canadian students selected from 30 finalists.

He will study four years at Cargilfield School, Barnton, and another four at Fettes College near Edinburgh.

John added in his letters that he also attained two or three "firsts" in his classroom subjects.

Immigration Rate Tripled in August

OTTAWA, Oct. 17 (CP)—Immigration tripled during August to bring Canada closer to its goal of 150,000 new citizens for 1951.

The immigration department estimated today that 37,236 immigrants were absorbed by Canada during August, compared with only 5,210 for August, 1950.

This brought the eight-month total for 1951 to 116,657—more than double the 49,220 in the corresponding period last year.

Most of the new citizens came from Germany, Italy, Poland, The United Kingdom and the Netherlands.

McINTOSH REDS

Crisp fall weather is apple weather—and that's the time B.C. McIntosh, the nation's favorite dual-purpose apple, is at its best!

Crisp and Juicy, B.C. "Macs" are unsurpassed for fresh eating and every cooking use! Use them often in your favorite apple desserts—apple pie, baked apples, apple pudding, apple crisp . . . in refreshing salads . . . or simply eaten out-of-hand—you'll find B.C. McIntosh Reds the pick of them all.

Enjoy B.C. McIntosh Reds often! . . . most economical by the box!

B.C. Apple Betty — 8 cups thinly sliced apples, ½ cup raisins, 1 cup bran flakes, ½ cup all-purpose flour, ¼ cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon cloves, ½ teaspoon lemon extract, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine. Peel apples; slice and combine with raisins. Mix bran flakes, flour, brown sugar, salt, spices and flavoring. Cut in butter or margarine. Arrange fruit and sugar mixture in alternate layers in well-greased baking dish, ending with generous layer of sugar-bran mixture. Bake at 350° F. for 45 to 50 minutes, or until apples are tender. Serve warm or cold. Serves 6.

B.C. Apple Roll — Roll out biscuit dough to ½ inch thickness. Spread with layer of diced apples, sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon. Roll like jelly roll, cut into 1-inch slices, and place slices cut-side down in good-sized greased baking pan. Make a sauce by mixing together 2 cups brown sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon butter and 2 cups boiling water. Stir until sugar is dissolved and sauce is smooth. Pour over the pinwheel slices and bake in moderately hot oven (375° F.) for about 25 minutes.

HEINZ puts in the CREAM

You add ONLY water

RESULT: real Cream of Tomato Soup

SAVE 1/2 PINT OF MILK with every tin of HEINZ CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP

When you buy straight Tomato Soup and add an equal amount of milk to produce a soup that tastes something like Cream of Tomato Soup, you lose out on getting a rich creamy flavour and you also lose out on the cost—especially the way prices are today.

Why not buy Cream of Tomato Soup to start with, as made by Heinz. Then you can save on milk and get a better result by simply adding water. Instead of a milky tomato soup you will get the true creamy taste most people enjoy—for Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup is made with thick country cream.

Remember, too, that this soup is much more flavourful because only pedigreed tomatoes are good enough for Heinz.

Try a comparison between ordinary tomato soup diluted with milk and Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup with only water added. When you have tasted the wonderful difference you will want to stock up with Heinz and eat happily ever after.
